LET IT DROP.

Necessity Republican:—General all around kicking is in order in practically every precinct in the state of Wisconsin over the high taxation question. In many places the taxes are practically double of those a year ago, and there is no telling where they will end a year from now. The equalization committee of Juneau county board of supervisors were called to Madison last week before the state tax commission to show reason why they did not accept the figures of the assessor of incomes in this district. The committee were able to tell alright, alright, and had they accepted the figures of that official practically every mother's son of a taxpayer in the town would have been forced into bankruptcy to meet the demands of the town treasurer this month. This is an age of reform. The state of Wisconsin is governed by an alignment of commissions that would make a blind mule dizzy, and every very puller in the bunch is drawing a fat salary on the job, while you and your neighbor are scratching gravel to pay 'em. The state tax commission informed the members that the waste land in the north part of this county should be assessed at $25 per acre. Ye Gods! Much of that land can be bought for $10, and unluckily is the poor devil that gets it. That gives some inkling of the wonderful and unfailing system our state tax commission has of obtaining their correct (?) figures. Something is going to drop one of these days, and let it be good and heavy, whatever it is, and may it strike squarely upon the heads of some of our fool state legislators who sat like jelly fish in their seats at the last session of the legislature and allowed the Madison political machine to lead them around by that part of their anatomy with which nature intended them to smell.

Will Meet at Grand Rapids.

Thru the efforts of Ben Hansen in connection with the Commercial Club, the 1914 convention of potato growers will be held in this city. F. G. Gilkey, secretary of the club, having received word to that effect last week.

The convention is held during the autumn months, and the indications are that there will be a large crowd in attendance, judging by the one that was held at Rhinelander last fall. It is expected that there will be two thousand or more people here. As the convention lasts four or five days, it means that a great many visitors will have a chance to size the city up and help to put it on the map. There are nothing like conventions for advertising a town, and they should be secured whenever possible.

CHIROPRACTIC RESOLUTIONS

Passed by the Wisconsin Chiropractic Association in Convention Assembled at Appleton, Wis., Jan. 2, 3, 1914.

Be it known to all to whom these presents may come that we Chiropractors practicing in the state of Wisconsin, and in Convention assembled do declare as follows:

WHEREAS, Thousands are being restored to the use of families and limbs by the means of the Science of Chiropractic, or the specific adjustment of the vertebrae, upon whom all other methods have failed, and

WHEREAS, The work of the Chiropractor can be done by him or her alone, it requires skill and knowledge not possessed by any others, and which practice in the art of Chiropractic Adjustment may be or she alone receives, the patients of Chiropractors being in a great measure the failures of other methods, those that have been classed as incurable, and

RESOLVED, That the value of our science being so great and as yet so little known, and the need for it untold thousands so urgent, it is our duty to put forth all reasonable efforts to bring it correctly to the notice of the public that it may be rightly understood and not misrepresented.

RESOLVED, That altho the practice of our profession has been declared by imminent legal authorities of this state not to be in violation of any law of this state, yet it is our purpose to act as quickly as possible, secure in the proper manner, legislation giving legal recognition to our science, and with a Chiropractic examining board competent to pass upon the Chiropractic, thereby forever putting an end to the possibility of further prosecution.

RESOLVED, That until this has been accomplished we will continue to assert our rights as citizens of the United States to practice our beneficent profession, removing the cause of disease, and aiding in bringing health and happiness to the sick and discouraged.

Another Malt Carrier Added.

Another malt carrier was added to the list in this city commencing last Monday morning, and the old carriers report that the change has made it much better for them, as the new man relieves them of enough work so that they are able to make their rounds much easier and get thru on time.

Geo. F. Nixon is the new regular carrier, he having been acting as substitute for some time past, Carroll Rector is the new substitute. This makes six regular carriers in the city. The addition of another carrier will also enable the department to extend the service in the city to some extent.

FORESTERS HAVE SOME BIG DOINGS

About three hundred visitors from surrounding towns were here on Wednesday last to participate in the entertainment furnished by the local lodge on that day, and it is safe to say that none of the visitors were disappointed in the manner in which the affair was handled.

The Foresters had a large class to initiate, and in order to do it up in proper style, a number of the state officers were present to lend their aid. Among the state officers present were John E. McCabe, Chief Ranger of Superior, Geo. T. O'Brien, Vice Ranger, of Fond du Lac, Geo. F. Fox, Secretary, of Chilton, D. F. Ryan, Treasurer, of Milwaukee and Trustees A. L. Nusbbaum and J. J. McGilvray of Chippewa Falls.

There were members here from Marshfield, Stevens Point, Junction City, Milladore, Auburndale, Nekeoma, and other places. The delegations from outside towns were met at the depot and welcomed by members of the local lodge. After the degree work in the Forester hall, the members and their visitors went to the Bijou Hall where a banquet had been prepared by the ladies, and where covers had been laid for 300. This was insufficient to accommodate the crowd, however, and it was necessary to serve about a hundred more after the first lot had been fed. J. R. Ragan acted as toastmaster for the occasion, and introduced Rev. Wm. Rieding, who gave a very pleasing address of welcome. This was responded to by Geo. T. O'Brien and there was also an address by Chief Ranger McCabe.

At the close of the banquet and speech making the floor was cleared and those who wished to indulge in dancing for several hours, the whole making up an afternoon and evening that should have proven most entertaining to all concerned.

Death of George Hublitz.

George Hublitz of the town of Port Edwards, died at Riverview hospital on Friday from an attack of appendicitis from which he had been suffering about a week. An operation was performed, but it was impossible to save his life. The young man was with his mother on a farm in the town of Port Edwards.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday from Port Edwards, Rev. Logan of the Methodist church conducting the services. The remains were interred at Nekeoma.

A Needed Improvement.

The Wausau Road & Rapid is in favor of a thru service of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, between Chicago and St. Paul.

As the trains run now a change is made at New Lisbon, and this branch of the road up here is run any old way, and depends on the main line for what little service it gets, or rather, for its lack of service. When the train on the main line is late, the Valley division train waits for it, but if the train on the Valley division happens to be late, the main line train goes right along, and passengers and mail matter take the next train.

A thru service would certainly be of great benefit to people all along the Valley division, and if there is any way of getting the change it should be secured.

A CLUBHOUSE FOR WORKMEN

The Consolidated Water Power and Paper company are engaged in remodeling the large residence near the mill at Biron, and when completed it will be turned over to the workmen for a clubhouse. A wide porch is being built onto the house which will be screened in so that it can be occupied in comfort during the summer time and the surrounding grounds will be landscaped so as to present a handsome appearance, and the outside will be as neat and tidy as it is possible to get it.

On the inside of the building some of the partitions have been taken out so that there are three large rooms down stairs which can be used for billiard room, reading and card rooms, etc. There will also be a kitchen so that entertainments of any sort can be handled with ease, and it will be a place that the residents of the village should find a great deal of pleasure in frequenting and keeping up.

When the changes are all made the building will be partly furnished by the company and turned over to a committee selected by the citizens up there, and will be operated for the benefit of the residents of the village.

It seems hardly necessary to point out that the establishment of this place will prove of great benefit to the inhabitants of Biron, and if they enter into the matter in the proper spirit there is no question but that they will be able to secure a great deal of amusement from the proposition and at the same time have their conditions made more inviting from the viewpoint of both the people of Biron and the Consolidated company are to be congratulated on the move.

Good Work of Sunday School.

This month of January has witnessed a definite proof of the ideals here in Grand Rapids. The First Congregational Sunday school of this city has been compelled to move its entire junior department into the large room which was formerly used as a church dining room. This movement was necessary in order that the increased number of pupils could be properly cared for.

This department has recently shown an increase in attendance of about 50 per cent. This rapid growth in attendance in addition to the corresponding increase in the intermediate and senior departments showed the need of additional room. Accordingly this new room was fitted up for the junior department. The attractive arrangement of the tables, chairs, rugs and of the decorations make a cozy, cheerful atmosphere which is very helpful. In order to increase the efficiency of each teacher, most of the larger classes have been divided into smaller groups. This plan will enable the teacher to give the pupils more of their personal attention and help than was formerly possible.

In conjunction with the Grand Rapids Go-to-Church Sunday on February 1, the Congregational Sunday school is planning a similar Go-to-Sunday-School movement for the same day. Special efforts are being made to have a large attendance of enrolled members and a large attendance of new scholars and visitors. In accordance with this they extend a cordial invitation to all who desire to visit or join their department.

Here is an opportunity to ally yourself with an institution which is helping to make Grand Rapids a better city.

Woman's Association Meeting.

The first regular meeting of the Woman's association of the Congregational church will be held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Daly, 638 Baker street on Wednesday, February 4. All of the ladies of the church are earnestly requested to be present early as the meeting commences promptly at 3 p. m. The general business of the association will be transacted and a short missionary program will be given.

Whittlesy Wins Case.

The case of Robert Skeel vs. S. N. Whittlesy came up for trial in circuit court one day last week and was settled in favor of the defendant by the presiding judge taking the case away from the jury and directing a verdict for the defendant.

This case was one in which the plaintiff claimed damages on account of his cranberry marsh being flooded with water, resulting in the loss of his crop. He claimed that the water had been deflected unlawfully by the defendant, the two men owning cranberry marshes adjacent to each other. It seems, however, that the plaintiff failed to prove his case.

An operation was performed, but it was impossible to save his life. The young man was with his mother on a farm in the town of Port Edwards.

THINKS GOVERNOR STRETCHED TRUTH

To the Editor:—

I notice in the Governor's speech in Milwaukee he tries to justify the unmerciful extravagance of the present administration and the useless army of lame ducks employed in commissions; by proclaiming that the Dairy commission alone has saved the state $10,000,000 annually and other commissions from one to four million. Now if this goes unchallenged a number of people may be deceived; and I would not be surprised if he tells it too often, the Governor will begin to believe it himself. The LaCrosse Tribune gives the University all the credit of this great saving. Now, neither the University nor the Dairy Commission had anything to do with it. The fact is it was the big Cold Storage Butter Trust that worked this trick; they cornered the butter and cheese output, placed it in cold storage, made a price and refused to sell for a cent less; competition was completely broken, there was no other place you could buy butter or cheese; and no other place the manufacturers could sell it. Men claiming to be independent buyers were blind agents for the trust. By holding these exorbitant prices they could afford to give the manufacturers a fair profit and they could pay the farmers a liberal price for milk. The farmers soon found, they could do better with milk, than raising beef; they then began rushing their calves to market at from 2 to 3 weeks old. The state used to ship thousands of car loads of meat cattle every year; now the buyer will scour a whole county over and perhaps find 1 or 2 carloads of old broken raised useless cows; all the calves raised are held to keep up the number of dairy cows. Now, I don't know what the Governor means by "saved the state $10,000,000." Does he call the tenth of the population (the producers of Dairy goods) the state? If so we will say that they make about 10-100 on their investment, food, labor and taxes; a saving of about $1,000,000 a year. It is no saving to get a dollar and pay 100 cents for it. Now, what about the other nine-tenths of the population, who are consumers of Dairy products and meat? Are they also the state? If so their loss in the high price of Dairy products and meat would be at a very conservative estimate about $4,000,000 a year. Query! How much has the state saved in this deal; and who gets the credit? This Dairy Commission, the Governor takes great pains in holding up as a champion money savor for the state. By looking them carefully over you will find that there is about 50 expensive commissions that are entirely useless, except to help in next election. Of course the rail road rate commission should be retained and strengthened. It was brought forth by an administration that did not spend the whole summer quarreling over political non-essentials and leave the legislation to be run by the commissions and the University.

Reiland Co. Re-Elect Officers.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Reiland Packing company was held one day last week and all of the old officers were re-elected. They are as follows:

President—Nic Reiland.
Vice Pres.—H. B. Welland.
Sec. and Treas.—Peter Reiland.
The other directors are Dr. J. J. Loefer and John B. Arpin.

Indications of Spring.

A little German band invaded the city one day last week and the members stood about on the street and discoursed music more or less sweet. This was a little early in the season for this sort of entertainment, and while we have been enjoying ideal weather for several months past, it has not been the kind that would induce one to stand out of doors listening to a brass band.

Pictures Pleased the Public.

The Edison talking pictures shown at Daly's theater on Saturday night were the best things of the kind ever seen in this city. The synchronism seemed to be absolutely perfect, and the enunciation was not as clear as it might be to give the best effect. When this latter feature is perfected a little more this class of entertainment will become a very popular one.

Lost Their Infant Daughter.

Marion Genevieve Demar, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Demar died Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, age 2 months and 16 days, at Vernon, Wisconsin. Besides her parents she leaves two sisters and one brother. Burial Wednesday morning at half past ten at New Berlin, Wis. Mrs. Demar formerly was Miss Frances Flick of Rudolph.

Normalizing Making Improvements.

Normalizing Brothers are building a ten foot addition to the back of their already spacious laundry which will be used as a boiler room. They have contracted for a 40 horse-power boiler of the Kawasaw tubular type, and when this is installed they intend to change over and drive their plant by steam instead of electricity.

Since their establishment in this city they have operated entirely by electric power, but as they have a number of machines that operate almost continuously they have decided that it would be cheaper to operate by steam, in view of the fact that they have to have steam for their drying rooms, hot water, etc.

The Normalizing now employ eighteen girls besides the men around the place, making quite a force, and they not only do the washing for the most of Grand Rapids, but they also have a large number of agencies in the surrounding towns that add very materially to the volume of work each week.

DEATH OF MRS. J. MEEHAN

Word was received here on Monday of the death of Mrs. James Meehan at Milwaukee, cause of death being pneumonia.

Mrs. Meehan was eighty-one years of age last Friday, January 23. Her maiden name was Catherine Love and she was born in Terhoun county, Canada East, in October, 1834, in the parish of St. Daniel, Canada, where she was married to James Meehan, who was also a native of Terhoun county. Shortly afterward Mr. and Mrs. Meehan went to Milwaukee and from there came to Grand Rapids, where they lived until 1866. In the latter year they went to Meehan Portage county, where Mr. Meehan, in partnership with his brother, Patrick, engaged extensively in lumbering and farming, under the firm name of Meehan Brothers & Co. The Meehan family was then one of the most prominent in Portage county and was elected to the legislature in 1878 as assemblyman. Mr. and Mrs. Meehan removed from Meehan to Stevens Point about twenty-five years ago and after two or three years there went to Mississippi, where Mr. Meehan also engaged in lumbering. For many years they had lived in retirement in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Meehan is survived by her husband and five children, Mrs. E. J. Pfeiffer of Stevens Point, Mrs. S. K. Rounds of Blaine, Washington, Mrs. Harry Scott of Milwaukee, James W. of Minneapolis, and Raymond W. of St. Paul. She also leaves five brothers and sisters, Alexander Love of Stevens Point, Thomas Love of this city, Miss Elizabeth Love of Milwaukee, Eugene Love of Buffalo, New York, and James Love of Rochester, New York.

The Taxes They Are Paying.

Licenses Revoked at Biron.

At a meeting of the Biron Village Board held Tuesday evening the licenses of the two saloons at that place were revoked. John Possley's place had been bought by the Consolidated people before the action of the board but Mr. Croteau refused to sell. This action of the board means that there will be no more saloons at Biron.

Plugging for Grand Rapids.

According to the Milwaukee Sentinel the Grand Rapids bowlers are putting a strong bid for the 1915 bowling tournament. The delegation is headed by Jacob Lutz and Wm. Gleue. Sheboygan and Kenosha are also after next year's tournament and the matter will be settled by the executive committee on February 24.

LET IT DROP.

Needah Republican.—General all around kicking is in order in practically every precinct in the state of Wisconsin over the high taxation question. In many places the taxes are practically double of those a year ago, and there is no telling where they will end a year from now. The equalization committee of Juneau county board of supervisors were called to Madison last week before the state tax commission to show reason why they did not accept the figures of the assessor of incomes in this district. The committee were able to tell alright, alright, and had they accepted the figures of that official practically every mother's son of a taxpayer in the town would have been forced into bankruptcy to meet the demands of the town treasurer this month. This is an age of reform. The state of Wisconsin is governed by an alignment of commissions that would make a blind mule dizzy, and every wire puller in the bunch is drawing a fat salary on the job, while you and your neighbor are scratching gravel to pay 'em. The state tax commission informed the members that the waste land in the north part of this county should be assessed at $25 per acre. Ye Gods! Much of that land can be bought for $10, and unluckily is the poor devil that gets it. That gives some inkling of the wonderful and unfailing system our state tax commission has of obtaining their correct (?) figures. Something is going to drop one of these days, and let it be good and heavy, whatever it is, and may it settle squarely upon the heads of some of our foot state legislators who sit like jelly fish in their seats at the last session of the legislature and allowed the Madison political machine to load them around by that part of their anatomy with which nature intended them to smell.

Will Meet at Grand Rapids.

Thru the efforts of Ben Hansen, in connection with the Commercial Club, the 1914 convention of potato growers will be held in this city. F. C. Gilkey, secretary of the club, having received word to that effect last week.

The convention is held during the autumn months, and the indications are that there will be a large crowd in attendance, judging by the one that was held at Rinelander last fall. It is expected that there will be two thousand or more people here. As the convention lasts four or five days, it means that a great many visitors will have a chance to size the city up and help to put it on the map. There are nothing like conventions for advertising a town, and they should be secured whenever possible.

CHIROPRACTIC RESOLUTIONS

Passed by the Wisconsin Chiropractic Association in Convention Assembled at Appleton, Wis., Jan. 2, 3, 1914.

Be it known to all to whom these presents may come that we Chiropractors practicing in the state of Wisconsin, and in Convention assembled do declare as follows:

WHEREAS, Thousands are being restored to the use of faculties and limbs by the means of the Science of Chiropractic, or the specific adjustment of the vertebrae, upon whom all other methods have failed; and

WHEREAS, The work of the Chiropractor can be done by him or her alone, it requires skill and knowledge not possessed by any others, and which practice in the art of Chiropractic Adjustment, which he or she alone receives, the patients of Chiropractors being in a great measure the failures of other methods, those that have been classed as incurables, and

RESOLVED, That the value of our science being so great and as yet so little known, and the need for it untold thousands so urgent, it is our duty to put forth all reasonable efforts to bring it correctly to the notice of the public that it may be rightly understood and not misrepresented.

RESOLVED, That altho the practice of our profession has been declared by imminent legal authorities of this state not to be in violation of any law of this state, yet it is our purpose as quickly as possible, secure in the proper manner, legislation giving legal recognition to our science, and with a Chiropractic examining board competent to pass upon the use of Chiropractic, thereby forever putting an end to the possibility of further prosecution.

RESOLVED, That until this has been accomplished we will continue to assert our rights as citizens of the United States to practice our beneficent profession, removing the cause of disease, and aiding in bringing health and happiness to the sick and discouraged.

Another Mail Carrier Added.

Another mail carrier was added to the list in this city commencing last Monday morning, and the old carriers report that the change has made it much better for them, as the new man relieves them of enough work so that they are able to make their rounds much easier and get thru on time.

Geo. F. Nixon is the new regular carrier, he having been acting as substitute for some time past, Carroll Rector is the new substitute. This makes six regular carriers in the city. The addition of another carrier will also enable the department to extend the service in the city to some extent.

About three hundred visitors from surrounding towns were here on Wednesday last to participate in the entertainment furnished by the local lodge on that day, and it is safe to say that none of the visitors were disappointed in the manner in which the affair was handled.

The Foresters had a large class to initiate, and in order to do it in proper style a number of the state officers were present to lend their aid. Among the state officers present were John E. McCabe, Chief Ranger of Superior, Geo. T. O'Brien, Vice Ranger of Fond du Lac, Geo. P. Fox, Secretary of Chilton, D. Ryan, Treasurer of Milwaukee and Trustees A. L. Nusbbaum and J. J. McGilvary of Chippewa Falls.

There were members here from Marshallfield, Stevens Point, Junction City, Milladore, Auburndale, Nekeosa, and other places. The delegations from outside towns were met at the depot and welcomed by members of the local lodge. After the degree work in the Forester hall, the members and their visitors went to the Bijou Hall where a banquet had been prepared by the ladies and where covers had been laid for 300. This was insufficient to accommodate the crowd, however, and it was necessary to serve about a hundred more after the first lot had been fed. J. R. Ragan acted as toastmaster for the occasion, and introduced Rev. Wm. Redding, who gave a very pleasing address of welcome. This was responded to by Geo. T. O'Brien and there was also an address by Chief Ranger McCabe.

At the close of the banquet and speech making the floor was cleared and those who wished to indulge in dancing for several hours, the whole making up an afternoon and evening that should have proven most entertaining to all concerned.

A Needed Improvement.

The Wausau Record Herald is in favor of a thru service to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road between Chicago and St. Paul.

As the trains run now a change is made at New Lisbon, and this branch of the road up here is run an old way, and depends on the main line for what little service it gets, or rather, for its lack of service. When the train on the main line is late, the Valley division train waits for it, but the train on the Valley division happens to be late, the main line train goes right along, and passengers and mail matter take the next train.

A thru service would certainly be of great benefit to people all along the Valley division, and if there is any way of getting the change it should be secured.

A CLUBHOUSE FOR WORKMEN

The Consolidated Water Power and Paper company are engaged in remodeling the residence located near the mill at Birton, and when completed it will be turned over to the workmen for a clubhouse. A wide porch is being built onto the house which will be screened in so that it can be occupied in comfort during the summer time, and the surrounding grounds will be marked so as to present a handsome appearance, and the outside will be as neat and tasty as it is possible to get it.

On the inside of the building some of the partitions have been taken out, so that there are three large rooms down stairs which can be used for billiard room, reading and card rooms, etc. There will also be a kitchen so that entertainments of any sort can be handled with ease, and it will be a place that the residents of the village should find a great deal of pleasure in frequenting and keeping up.

When the changes are all made the building will be partly furnished by the company and turned over to a committee selected by the citizens up there, and will be operated for the benefit of the residents of the village.

It seems hardly necessary to point out that the establishment of this place will prove of great benefit to the inhabitants of Birton, and if they enter into the matter in the proper spirit there is no question but what they will be able to secure a great deal of amusement from the project, and at the same time have their conditions made more inviting from every viewpoint. Both the people of Birton and the Consolidated company are to be congratulated on the move.

Good Work of Sunday School.

This month of January has witnessed a definite proof of the ideals here in Grand Rapids. The First Congregational Sunday school of this city has been compelled to move its entire junior department into the large room which was formerly used as a church dining room. This move was necessary in order that the increased number of pupils could be properly cared for.

This department has recently shown an increase in attendance of about 50 per cent. This rapid growth in attendance in addition to the corresponding increase in the intermediate and senior departments showed the need of additional room. Accordingly this new room was fitted up for the junior department. The attractive arrangement of the tables, chairs, rugs and of the decorations make a cozy, cheerful atmosphere which is very helpful. In order to increase the efficiency of each teacher, most of the larger classes have been divided into smaller groups. This plan will enable the teacher to give the pupils more of their personal attention and help than was formerly possible.

In conjunction with the Grand Rapids Go-to-Church Sunday school on February 1, the Congregational Sunday school is planning a similar Go-to-Sunday-School movement for the same day. Special efforts are being made to have a large attendance of enrolled members and a large attendance of new scholars and visitors. In accordance with this they extend a cordial invitation to all who desire to visit or join their department.

Here is an opportunity to ally yourself with an institution which is helping to make Grand Rapids a better city.

Woman's Association Meeting.

The first regular meeting of the Woman's association of the Congregational church will be held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Daly, 638 Baker street on Wednesday, February 4. All of the ladies of the church are earnestly requested to be present early as the meeting commences promptly at 3 p. m. The general business of the association will be transacted and a short missionary program will be given.

Whitlesey Wins Case.

The case of Robert Skeel vs. S. N. Whitlesey came up for trial in circuit court one day last week and was settled in favor of the defendant by the presiding judge taking the case away from the jury and directing a verdict for the defendant.

This case was one in which the plaintiff claimed damages on account of a cranberry marsh being flooded with water, resulting in the loss of his crop. He claimed that the water had been deflected unlawfully by the defendant, the two men owning cranberry marshes adjacent to each other. It seems, however, that the plaintiff failed to prove his case.

Death of George Bublitz.

George Bublitz of the town of Port Edwards, died at Riverside hospital on Friday from an attack of appendicitis from which he had been suffering about a week. An operation was performed, but it was impossible to save his life. The young man was with his mother on a farm in the town of Port Edwards.

The funeral was held on Tuesday from Port Edwards, Rev. Logan of the Methodist church conducting the services. The remains were interred at Nekeosa.

THINKS GOVERNOR STRETCHED TRUTH

To the Editor:

I notice in the Governor's speech in Milwaukee he tries to justify the unmerciful extravagance of the present administration and the useless army of lame ducks employed in commissions, by proclaiming that the Dairy commission alone has saved the state $10,000,000 annually and other commissions from one to four million. Now if this goes unchallenged a number of people may believe it, and it would not be surprising if he tells it too often. The Governor will begin to believe himself. The LaCrosse Tribune gives the University all the credit of this great saving. Now, neither the University nor the Dairy Commission had anything to do with it. The fact is it was the big Cold Storage Butter Trust that worked this trick; they cornered the butter and cheese output, placed it in cold storage, made a price and refused to sell for a cent less; competition was completely broken; there was no other place they could buy butter or cheese, and no other place the manufacturers could sell it. Men claiming to be independent buyers were blind agents for the trust. By holding these exorbitant prices they could afford to give the manufacturers a fair profit and they could pay the farmers a liberal price for milk. The farmers soon found that the cold storage trust was raising beet, they then began rushing their calves to market at from 2 to 3 weeks' old. The state used to ship thousands of car loads of meat cattle every year; now the buyer will scour a whole county over and perhaps find 1 or 2 carloads of old broken down useless cows; all the calves raised are heifers to keep up the number of dairy cows. Now, I don't know what the Governor means by "saved the state $10,000,000." Does he call the tenth of the population (the producers of Dairy goods) the state? If so we will say that they make about 10-100 on their investment; food, labor, and taxes; a saving of about $1,000,000 a year. It is no saving to get a dollar and pay 100 cents for it. Now, what about the other nine-tenths of the population, who are consumers of Dairy products and meat? Are they also the state? If so their loss in the high price of Dairy products and meat would be a very conservative estimate about $4,000,000 a year. Query! How much has the state saved in this deal; and who gets the credit? This Dairy Commission, the Governor takes great pains in holding up as a champion money saver for the state. By looking them carefully over you will find that there is about 50 expensive commissions that are entirely useless, except to help in next election. Of course the rail road rate commission should be retained and strengthened. It was brought forth by an administration that did not spend the whole summer quarreling over political non-essentials and leave the legislation to be run by the commissions and the University.

JACOB LUSK, Grand Rapids, Wis.

Reiland Co. Re-Elect Officers.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Reiland Packing company was held one day last week and all of the old officers were re-elected. They are as follows:
President—Nic Reiland.
Vice Pres.—H. B. Welland.
Sec. and Treas.—Peter Reiland.
The other directors are Dr. J. J. Long and John B. Arpin.

The report of the past year's business shows the concern to be in a prosperous condition and the stockholders well pleased with the showing.

Indications of Spring.

A little German band invaded the city one day last week and the members stood about on the street and discoursed music more or less sweet. It was a trifle early in the season for this sort of entertainment, and while we have been enjoying ideal weather for several months past, it has not been the kind that would induce one to stand out of doors listening to a brass band.

Pictures Pleased the Public.

The Edison talking pictures shown at Daly's theater on Saturday night were the best things of the kind ever seen in this city. The synchronism seemed to be absolutely perfect, although the enunciation was not as clear as it might be to give the best effect. When this latter feature is perfected a little more this class of entertainment will become a very popular one.

Lost Their Infant Daughter.

Marion Genevieve Demar, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Demar, died Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, age 2 months and 16 days, at Vernon, Wisconsin. Besides her parents she leaves two sisters and one brother. Burial Wednesday morning at half past ten at New Berlin, Wis. Mrs. Demar formerly was Miss Frances Flick of Rudolph.

WRESTLING.

Fred Beell, the Marshallfield wrestler is becoming one of the most feared men in the mat game. Beell weighs 175 pounds, and since his come-back has won every match with ease. Beell is going after Cutler, Yokel, Fritseny, and Zybsko.—Evening Wisconsin.

A Birthday Surprise.

A number of the friends of Joseph Rick surprised him by dropping in on him Sunday, the occasion being that gentleman's birthday. Covers were laid for nineteen and those present report a fine time.

W. J. Mann of Waukesha and A. P. Bean of Hansen were among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office this morning. Mr. Mann had been up at Arpin where he was looking after some business matters.

Mrs. James Brunner of Port Edwards was among the business visitors in the city this morning.

Norringtons Making Improvements.

Norrington Brothers are building a ten foot addition to the back of their already spacious laundry which will be used as a boiler room. They have contracted for a 40 horse-power boiler of the Kewanee tubular type, and when this is installed they intend to change over and drive their plant by steam instead of electricity.

Since their establishment in this city they have operated entirely by electric power, but as they have a number of machines that operate almost continuously they have decided that it would be cheaper to operate by steam, in view of the fact that they have to have steam for their drying rooms, hot water, etc.

The Norringtons

The Norringtons now employ eighteen girls besides the men around the place, making quite a force, and they not only do the washing for the most of Grand Rapids, but they also have a large number of agencies in the surrounding towns, that add very materially to the volume of work each week.

DEATH OF MRS. J. MEEHAN

Word was received here on Monday of the death of Mrs. James Meehan at Milwaukee, cause of death being pneumonia.

Mrs. Meehan was eighty-one years of age last Friday, January 23. Her husband was a native of Wisconsin and she was born in Terboon county, Canada East, in October, 1854, in the parish of St. Bazile, Canada, who was married to James Meehan, who was also a native of Terboon county. Shortly afterward Mr. and Mrs. Meehan went to Milwaukee and from there came to Grand Rapids, where they lived until 1886. In the latter year they went to Meehan Portage county, where Mr. Meehan, in partnership with his brother, Patrick, engaged extensively in lumbering and farming, under the firm name of Meehan Brothers & Co. The Meehan family was then one of the most prominent in Portage county and Mr. Meehan was for thirteen years a member of the county board and was elected to the legislature in 1876 as assemblyman. Mr. and Mrs. Meehan removed from Meehan to Stevens Point about twenty-five years ago and after two or three years there went to Mississippi, where Mr. Meehan also engaged in lumbering. For many years they had lived in retirement in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Meehan is survived by her husband and five children, Mrs. E. J. Pfiffner of Stevens Point, Mrs. S. K. Rounds of Blaine, Washington, Mrs. Harry Scott of Milwaukee, James J. of Minneapolis, and Raymond W. of St. Paul. She also leaves five brothers and sisters, Alexander Love of Stevens Point, Thomas Love of this city, Miss Elizabeth Love of Milwaukee, Eugene Love of Buffalo, New York, and James Love of Rochester, New York.

No Investigation for Marshallfield.

Judge Park last week decided that Marshallfield did not need a grand jury investigation. This was in accordance with the recommendation of Attorney Geo. L. Williams, who made several trips to Marshallfield and looked over the situation very carefully and talked with many people up there on the subject. This recommendation of Mr. Williams and decision by Judge Park will coincide with the views of most of the people in this end of the county, who were of the opinion that the calling of a Grand Jury would be a needless expense to the county.

Annual Hospital Meeting.

The annual meeting of the River-view Hospital association will be held in this city at the Consolidated office on Tuesday afternoon, February 10, at 2 o'clock. At this meeting it is proposed to amend the constitution in such a way that it will be possible to increase the number of members on the board of directors from 5 to 7, and the amendment will be voted upon at that time.

Escaped With a Fine.

Joseph Grall, the Marshallfield saloon keeper, who shot Tommy Krieg, the prizefighter, in April, 1913, had his trial before Judge Park one day last week. When Grall was arrested he was charged with assault with intent to kill, but when the case came up the charge was changed to plain assault, to which Grall pled guilty, and a fine of $75 was imposed, which with the costs amounted to $118.62.

He Averaged Well.

I came upon an ancient mound Deep in a dell,
And on a stone these words I found:
"He averaged well."
"He averaged well!" Few men are good Their whole lives long
And now and then, 'tis understood,
We all do wrong.

Our good days and our bad we have,

But when they tell
My tale, I hope they'll say of me
"He averaged well."
Pittsburgh Post.

Plugging for Grand Rapids.

According to the Milwaukee Sentinel the Grand Rapids bowlers are putting a strong bid for the 1915 bowling tournament. The delegation is headed by Jacob Lutz and Wm. Gleue. Sheboygan and Kenosha are also after next year's tournament and the matter will be settled by the executive committee on February 2d.

EPISCOPALS FORM DIOCEAN CLUB

In response to invitations sent out by the members of St. John's Episcopal church of this city about sixty-five members of this church from the surrounding towns and cities in the Wisconsin Valley assembled in this city on Thursday for the purpose of forming an organization to be known as the "Church Club of the Wisconsin River Valley." There were representatives present from Stevens Point, Marshallfield, Wausau, Mosinee, Merrill and Waupaca, as well as Bishop Weller from Fond du Lac.

After a short service in the afternoon the visitors and members of the local church sat down to a 6:30 dinner, after which the matter of forming a club was taken up and discussed. Bishop Weller was the principal speaker of the occasion, although others present had something to say favorable to the plan. At the conclusion of the talk the following officers were elected:

President—Geo. K. Gibson.
Vice Pres.—J. L. Sturdevant of Wausau.
Secretary—I. P. Witter.
Treasurer—W. H. Roddis, of Marshallfield.

The meeting was a most pleasant one and it is the intention to hold occasional meetings throughout the district, the next of which will be held at Marshallfield. The ladies of the local parish

LET IT DROP.

Necedah Republican.—General all around kicking is in order in practically every precinct in the state of Wisconsin over the high taxation question. In many places the taxes are practically double of those a year ago, and there is no telling where they will end a year from now. The equalization committee of Juneau county board of supervisors were called to Madison last week before the state tax commission to show reason why they did not accept the figures of the assessor of incomes in this district. The committee were able to tell alright, alright, and had they accepted the figures of that official practically every mother's son of a tax payer in the town would have been forced into bankruptcy to meet the demands of the town treasurer this month. This is an age of reform. The state of Wisconsin is governed by an alignment of commissions that would make a blind mule dizzy, and every wire puller in the bunch is drawing a fat salary on the scratching gravel to pay 'em. The state tax commission informed the members that the waste land in the north part of this county should be assessed at $25 per acre. Ye Gods! Much of that land can be bought for $10, and unluckily the poor devil that gets it. That gives some inkling of the wonderful and unfeeling system our state tax commission has of obtaining their correct (?) figures. Something is going to drop one of these days, and let it be good and heavy, whatever it is, and may it strike squarely upon the beans of some of our fool state legislators who act like jelly fish in their seats at the last session of the legislature and allowed the Madison political machine to lead them around by that part of their anatomy with which nature intended them to smile.

Will Meet at Grand Rapids.

Through the efforts of Ben Hansen in connection with the Commercial Club, the 1914 convention of potato growers will be held in this city. F. G. Gilkey, secretary of the club, having received word to that effect last week. The convention is held during the autumn months and the indications are that there will be a large crowd in attendance, judging by the one that was held at Rhineland last fall. It is expected that there will be two thousand or more people here. As the convention lasts four or five days, it means that a great many visitors will have a chance to size the city up and help to put it on the map. There are nothing like conventions for advertising a town, and they should be secured whenever possible.

CHIROPRACTIC RESOLUTIONS

Passed by the Wisconsin Chiropractic Association in Convention Assembled at Appleton, Wis., Jan. 2, 3, 1914.

Be it known to all to whom these presents may come that we Chiropractors practicing in the state of Wisconsin, and in Convention assembled do declare as follows:

WHEREAS, Thousands are being restored to the use of faculties and limbs by the means of the Science of Chiropractic, or the specific adjustment of the vertebrae, upon whom all other methods have failed; and

WHEREAS, The work of the Chiropractor can be done by him or her alone, it requires skill and knowledge not possessed by any others, and which practice in the art of Chiropractic Adjustment, which he or she alone receives, the patients of Chiropractors being in a great measure the failures of other methods, those that have been classified as incurable, and

RESOLVED, That the value of our science being so great and as yet so little known, and the need for it so urgent, it is our duty to put forth all reasonable efforts to bring to the knowledge of the public that it may be rightly understood and not misrepresented.

RESOLVED, That altho the practice of our profession has been declared by imminent legal authorities of this state not to be in violation of any law of this state, yet it is our purpose to do as quickly as possible, secure in the proper manner, legislation giving legal recognition to our science, and with a Chiropractic examination board competent to pass upon the license Chiropractic, thereby forever putting an end to the possibility of further prosecution.

RESOLVED, That until this has been accomplished we will continue to assert our rights as citizens of the United States to practice our beneficent profession, removing the cause of disease, and aiding in bringing health and happiness to the sick and discouraged.

Another Mail Carrier Added.

Another mail carrier was added to the list in this city commencing last Monday morning, and the old carriers report that the change has made it much better for them, as the new man relieves them of enough work so that they are able to make their rounds much easier and get thru on time.

Geo. F. Nixon is the new regular carrier, he having been acting as substitute for some time past. Carroll Reitor is the new substitute. This makes six regular carriers in the city. The addition of another carrier will also enable the department to extend the service in the city to some extent.

About three hundred visitors from surrounding towns were here on Wednesday last to participate in the entertainment furnished by the local lodge on that day. It was a big day, and the visitors were well taken care of. The lodge is a fine building, and the entertainment was well planned. The visitors were well taken care of, and the lodge is a fine building.

The Foresters have a large class to instruct, and in order to do it up in proper style, a number of the state officers were present to lend their aid. Among the state officers present were John E. McCabe, Chief Ranger of Superior, Geo. T. O'Brien, Vice Ranger of Fond du Lac, Geo. P. Fox, Secretary of Milwaukee, and J. J. Ryan, Treasurer of Chilton. D. F. McGilvray of Chippewa Falls.

There were members here from Marshfield, Stevens Point, Junction City, Milladore, Auburndale, Nekeosa, and other places. The delegations from outside towns were met at the depot and welcomed by members of the local lodge. After the dinner, the work in the Forester hall, the members and their visitors went to the big hall where a banquet had been prepared by the ladies, and where covers had been laid for 300. This was insufficient to accommodate the crowd, however, and it was necessary to serve about a hundred more after the first lot had been fed. J. R. Ragan acted as toastmaster for the occasion, and introduced Rev. Wm. Redding, who gave a very pleasing address of welcome. This was responded to by Geo. T. O'Brien and there was also an address by Chief Ranger McCabe.

At the close of the banquet and speech making the floor was cleared and those who wished to indulge in dancing for several hours, the whole making up an afternoon and evening that should have proven most entertaining to all concerned.

A Needed Improvement.

The Wausau Record Herald is in favor of a thru service of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road between Chicago and St. Paul.

As the trains run now a change is made at New Lisbon, and this branch of the road up here is run only old way, and depends on the main line for what little service it gets, or rather, for its lack of service. When the train on the main line is late, the Valley division train waits for it, but if the train on the Valley division happens to be late, the main line train goes right along, and passengers and mail matter take the next train.

A thru service would certainly be of great benefit to people all along the Valley division, and if there is any way of getting the change it should be secured.

A CLUBHOUSE FOR WORKMEN

The Consolidated Water Power and Paper company are engaged in remodeling the large residence near the mill at Biron, and which completed it will be turned over to the workmen for a clubhouse. A wide porch is being built onto the house which will be screened in so that it can be occupied in comfort during the summer time and the surrounding grounds will be parked so as to present a handsome appearance, and the outside will be as neat and tasty as it is possible to get it.

On the inside of the building some of the partitions have been taken out so that there are three large rooms down stairs, which can be used for billiard room, reading and card rooms etc. There will also be a kitchen so that entertainments of any sort can be handled with ease, and it will be a place that the residents of the village should find a great deal of pleasure in frequenting and keeping up.

When the changes are all made the building will be partly furnished by the company and turned over to a committee selected by the citizens up there, and will be operated for the benefit of the residents of the village.

It seems hardly necessary to point out that the establishment of this place will prove of great benefit to the inhabitants of Biron, and if they enter into the matter in this way, they will be able to secure a great deal of amusement from the proposition and at the same time have their conditions made more inviting from every viewpoint. Both the people of Biron and the Consolidated company are to be congratulated on the move.

Good Work of Sunday School.

This month of January has witnessed a definite proof of the ideals here in Grand Rapids. The First Congregational Sunday school of this city has been compelled to move its entire junior department into the new room which was formerly used as a church dining room. This move was necessary in order that the increased number of pupils could be properly cared for.

This department has recently shown an increase in attendance of about 50 per cent. This rapid growth in attendance in addition to the corresponding increase in the intermediate and senior departments showed the need of additional room. Accordingly this new room was fitted up for the junior department. The attractive arrangement of the tables, chairs, rugs and of the decorations make a cozy, cheerful atmosphere which is very helpful. In order to increase the efficiency of each teacher, most of the larger classes have been divided into smaller groups. This plan will enable the teacher to give the pupils more of their personal attention and help than was formerly possible.

In conjunction with the Grand Rapids Go-to-Church on Sunday school, the Congregational Sunday school movement for the same day. Special efforts are being made to have a large attendance of enrolled members and a large attendance of new scholars and visitors. In accordance with this they extend a cordial invitation to all who desire to visit or join their department.

Here is an opportunity to glorify your self with an institution which is helping to make Grand Rapids a better city.

Woman's Association Meeting.

The first regular meeting of the Woman's association of the Congregational church will be held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Daly, 638 Baker street on Wednesday, February 4. All of the ladies of the church are earnestly requested to be present early as the meeting commences promptly at 3 p. m. The general business of the association will be transacted and a short missionary program will be given.

Whitely's Wins Case.

The case of Robert Skeel vs. S. N. Whitely came up for trial in circuit court one day last week and was settled in favor of the defendant by the presiding judge taking the case away from the jury and directing a verdict for the defendant.

This case was one in which the plaintiff claimed damages on account of his cranberry marsh being flooded with water, resulting in the loss of his crop. It was claimed that the water was let into the defendant's cranberry marshes adjacent to each other. It seems, however, that the plaintiff failed to prove his case.

Death of George Bublitz.

George Bublitz of the town of Port Edwards, died at Riverside hospital on Friday from an attack of appendicitis from which he had been suffering about a week. An operation was performed, but it was impossible to save his life. He was claimed to be with his mother on a farm in the town of Port Edwards.

The funeral was held on Tuesday from Port Edwards, Rev. Logan of the Methodist church conducting the services. The remains were interred at Nekeosa.

A Birthday Surprise.

A number of the friends of Joseph Rick surprised him by dropping in on him Sunday, the occasion being that gentleman's birthday. Covers were laid for nineteen and those present report a fine time.

WRESTLING.

Fred Beall, the Marshfield wrestler is becoming one of the most feared men in the mat game. Beall weighs 175 pounds, and since his comeback has won every match with ease. Beall is going after Cutler, Yokel, Fritsenky and Zybszko.—Evening Wisconsin.

To the Editor:—

I notice in the Governor's speech in Milwaukee he tries to justify the unmerciful extravagance of the present administration and the useless army of lame ducks employed in commissions; by proclaiming that the Dairy commission alone has saved the state $10,000,000 annually and other commissions from one to four million. Now if the good untruths I have heard of the Governor are true, I would not be surprised if he tells it too often, the Governor will begin to believe it himself. The LaCrosse Tribune gives the University all the credit of this great saving. Now, neither the University nor the Dairy Commission had anything to do with it. The fact is it was the big Cold Storage Butter Trust that worked this trick.

Cornered the butter and cheese output, placed it in cold storage, made price and refused to sell for a cent less; competition was completely broken, there was no other place you could buy butter or cheese; and no other place the manufacturers could sell it. Men claiming to be independent buyers were blind agents for the trust. By holding these exorbitant prices they could afford to give the manufacturer a fair profit and they could pay the farmers a liberal price for milk. The farmers soon found, they could do better with milk, than raising beef; they then began rushing their calves to market at from 2 to 3 weeks old. The state used to ship thousands of car loads of meat cattle every year; now the buyer will scour a whole county over and pick out a 1 or 2 car loads of old broken down calves; all the calves are sent to the buyers to keep up the number of dairy cows. Now I don't know what the Governor means by "saved the state $10,000,000." Does he call the tenth of the population (the producers of dairy goods) the state? If so we will say that they make about 10-100 on their investment, food, labor and taxes; a saving of about $1,000,000 a year. It is no saving to get a dollar and pay 100 cents for it. Now, what about the other nine-tenths of the population, who are consumers of dairy products, and meat? Are they also the state? If so their loss in the high price of dairy products and meat would be at a very conservative estimate about $4,000,000 a year. Query! How much has the state saved in this deal? and who gets the credit? This Dairy Commission, holding up as a champion money saver for the state. By looking them carefully over you will find that there is about 50 expensive commissions that are entirely useless, except to help in next election. Of course the rail road rate commission should be retained and strengthened. It was brought forth by an administration that did not spend the money on non-essentials and leave the legislation to be run by the commissions and the University.

Reland Co. Re-Elect Officers.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Reland Packing company was held one day last week and all of the old officers were re-elected. They are as follows:

President—H. B. Welland.
Vice Pres.—H. B. Welland.
Sec. and Treas.—Peter Reland.
The other directors are Dr. J. J. Loege and John B. Arpin.

The report of the past year's business shows the concern to be in a prosperous condition and the stockholders well pleased with the showing.

Indications of Spring.

A little German band invaded the city one day last week and the members stood about on the street and discoursed music more or less sweet. It was a trifle early in the season for this sort of entertainment, and while we have been enjoying ideal weather for several months past, it has not been the kind that would induce one to stand out of doors listening to a brass band.

Pictures Pleased the Public.

The Edison talking pictures shown at Daly's theatre on Saturday night were the best things of the kind ever seen in this city. The synchronism seemed to be absolutely perfect, although the enunciation was not as clear as it might be to give the best effect. When this latter feature is perfected a little more this class of entertainment will become a very popular one.

Lost Their Infant Daughter.

Marion Genevieve Demar, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Demar, died Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, age 2 months and 16 days, at Vernon, Wisconsin. Besides her parents she leaves two sisters and one brother. Burial Wednesday morning at half past ten at New Berlin, Wis. Mrs. Demar formerly was Miss Frances Flick of Rudolph.

BIRTHS.

To Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Brazeau on Wednesday, Jan. 21st, a boy.

To Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Knoll, on Monday, Jan. 19th, a boy.

Adjudged Insane.

Alice Crawshaw of Marshfield was adjudged insane Tuesday before the County Judge and was taken to the asylum this morning.

Normingtons Making Improvements.

Normington Brothers are building a ten foot addition to the back of their already spacious laundry which will be used as a boiler room. They have contracted for a 40 horse-power boiler of the Kawano tubular type, and when this is installed they intend to change over and drive their plant by steam instead of electricity.

Since their establishment in this city they have operated entirely by electric power, but as they have a number of machines that operate almost continuously they have decided that it would be cheaper to operate by steam. In view of the fact that they have to have steam for their drying rooms, hot water, etc.

The Normingtons now employ eighteen girls besides the men around the place, making quite a force, and they not only do the washing for the most of Grand Rapids, but they also have a large number of agencies in the surrounding towns that add very materially to the volume of work each week.

DEATH OF MRS. J. MEEHAN

Word was received here on Monday of the death of Mrs. James Meehan at Milwaukee, cause of death being pneumonia.

Mrs. Meehan was eighty-one years of age last Friday, January 23. Her maiden name was Catherine Love and she was born in Terboon county, Canada East. In October, 1854, in the parish of St. Bazile, Canada, she was married to James Meehan, who was also a native of Terboon county. Shortly afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Meehan came to Milwaukee and from there came to Grand Rapids, where they lived, until 1866. In the latter year they went to Meehan Portage county, where Mr. Meehan, in partnership with his brother, Patrick, engaged extensively in lumbering and farming, under the firm name of Meehan Brothers & Co. The Meehan family was then one of the most prominent in Portage county and Mr. Meehan was for thirteen years a member of the county board and was elected to the legislature in 1878 as assemblyman. Mr. and Mrs. Meehan removed from Meehan to Stevens Point about twenty-five years ago and after two or three years there went to Mississippi, where Mr. Meehan also engaged in lumbering. For many years they had lived in retirement in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Meehan is survived by her husband and five children, Mrs. E. J. Piffner of Stevens Point, Mrs. S. K. Rounds of Blaine, Washington, Mrs. Harry Scott of Milwaukee, James J. of Minneapolis, and Raymond W. of St. Paul. She also leaves five brothers and sisters, Alexander Love of Stevens Point, Thomas Love of this city, Miss Elizabeth Love of Milwaukee, Eugene Love of Buffalo, New York, and James Love of Rochester, New York.

The Taxes They Are Paying.

The tax payers in the following cities are paying:

Grand Rapids $23.00
Marshfield $27.
Stevens Point $34.80.
Wausau $28.
Merrill $32.80.
Green Bay $31.00.
Eau Claire $30.
Portage $20 on each $1,000.

Licenses Revoked at Biron.

At a meeting of the Biron Village Board held Tuesday evening the licenses of the two saloons at that place were revoked. John Possley's place had been bought by the Consolidated people before the action of the board, but Mr. Crockett refused to sell. This action of the board means that there will be no more saloons at Biron.

Plugging for Grand Rapids.

According to the Milwaukee Sentinel the Grand Rapids bowlers are putting a strong bid for the 1915 bowling tournament. The delegation is headed by Jacob Lutz and Wm. Gleue. Sheboygan and Kenosha are also after next year's tournament and the matter will be settled by the executive committee on February 24.

EPISCOPALS FORM DIOCEAN CLUB

In response to invitations sent out by the members of St. John's Episcopal church of this city about sixty-five members of this church from the surrounding towns and cities in the Wisconsin Valley assembled in this city on Thursday for the purpose of forming an organization to be known as the "Church Club of the Wisconsin River Valley." There were representatives present from Stevens Point, Marshfield, Wausau, Mosinee, Merrill and Waupaca, as well as Bishop Veller from Fond du Lac.

After a short service in the afternoon the visitors and members of the local church sat down to a $3.00 dinner, after which the matter of forming a club was taken up and discussed. Bishop Veller was the principal speaker of the occasion, although others present had something to say favorable to the plan. At the conclusion of the talk the following officers were elected:

President—Geo. K. Gibson.
Vice Pres.—J. L. Sturdevant of Wausau.

Sectary—J. P. Witter.
Treasurer—W. H. Roddis, of Marshfield.

The meeting was a most pleasant one and it is the intention to hold occasional meetings throughout the district, the next of which will be held at Marshfield. The ladies of the local parish were tendered a vote of thanks for the excellent dinner which they had furnished, after which the meeting adjourned.

CONVICTS FLEE; 7 DIE

EX-CONGRESSMAN THOMAS OF ILLINOIS SLAIN AND WOMAN SHOT DURING BATTLE.

Senators of State Penitentiary at Oklahoma Attempt to Shoot Way to Liberty, With Girl as Shield, and Engagement With Posses Follows.

McAlester, Okla., Jan. 21.—An attempt on the part of the state penitentiary here on Monday, seven men were dead and one woman is wounded.

The dead: P. C. Oates, deputy sheriff; H. C. Godfrey, guard; H. H. Deconer, Bertillon man; Judge John R. Thomas, formerly congressman from Illinois; Charles Reed, prisoner; Tom Lane, prisoner; Charles Kuntz, prisoner.

The injured: Miss Mary Foster, prison stenographer; shot in leg; W. W. Martin, turnkey; shot in chest.

C. R. Woods, guard; shot in arm. Judge Thomas, a Muskogee attorney, was formerly congressman from Illinois, a federal judge and a member of the state code commission. He served five terms in congress from the Fifth (Ill.) district.

Reed, Lane and Kuntz, the three prisoners, stormed the guard, shooting the three prison officials and Judge Thomas, who was in the penitentiary consulting a client.

The prisoners then rushed to the penitentiary office and at the point of revolvers forced P. C. Rice and Miss Mary Foster, the latter a penitentiary stenographer, to go with them to a buggy near the penitentiary and get in. A bullet from one of the prisoners' guns entered the leg of Miss Foster. She fainted in the buggy. An alarm was sounded and guards on horseback were sent in pursuit of the fugitives.

In the meantime the sheriff of Pittsburg county had been notified and asked to quickly summon a posse of men. Before the posse of men had gone more than a half mile from the penitentiary, however, they were overtaken by the penitentiary guards. A battle took place on the highway in which all three of the convicts were shot to death. Gov. Lee Cruce was notified of the outbreak over long distance by Warden Dick.

The first intimation prison officials had that anything was wrong was when the men grabbed the two guards and marched them in front of them to the penitentiary office. Deputy Warden Oates was in the office talking with Judge Thomas of Muskogee. As the men entered they pointed their pistols at Oates. Oates jumped to his feet and began to fire, but his aim was poor, because he was afraid of hitting the guards, who were serving as breastworks for the prisoners. At the second shot from Oates' pistol the men shot Oates and the others to death. While they were fleeing in the buggy, pursued by the mounted posse, Miss Foster fell out of the vehicle. Then the guards closed in and shot the prisoners to death.

RAIL STRIKE OF 5,000 ENDS

Delaware & Hudson Officials Submit to Union After Walkout Paralyzes System—Federal Mediator Agent.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21.—The strike on the Delaware & Hudson, which began on Monday morning and by noon tied up the entire system, was settled at night. Railroad officials met the union's demands that they restore two discharged employees, James A. Lynch, an engineer, and F. A. Slado, a conductor, to their former positions. All strikers will return to duty at once. Five thousand were involved in the walkout.

G. W. W. Hangar, a member of the federal board of mediation and conciliation, brought about the agreement. A settlement was reached only after Mr. Hangar had suggested to the company officials that they yield to the demands of the men. Arbitration, he declared, was impossible.

As soon as Clifford S. Sims, vice-president and general manager of the railway, and union officials had signed the agreement orders were sent out for men to report for work as quickly as possible. Many crews that had been tied up at terminal points were notified by telephone to resume their runs without reporting here.

Early on Monday the first body of men walked out. From then until noon engineers, conductors, trainmen, telegraph operators and towmen gradually quit, as the safety of passengers would permit. At noon it was estimated that 5,000 men were out, and the entire system was paralyzed. Shop workers and office employees alone remained on duty.

Bryan to Open Bible Meeting. Washington, Jan. 21.—Secretary Bryan has extended to open with an address an extensive Bible conference to be held here February 8 and continuing for seven days. Other distinguished speakers will be there.

Prepare for War in Ulster. London, Jan. 21.—Leaders of Ulster Unionists assert they have 100,000 volunteers to fight home rule. Seven hundred women have qualified as members of the first aid to the injured organization.

Prince of Denmark Weds Countess. Turin, Jan. 21.—Prince Aage of Denmark, son of Christian X. of Denmark, was privately married here to Countess Cecilie Borge. The marriage was a love match. Prince Aage was born in 1887.

Lord Strathcona Nearing End. London, Jan. 21.—Lord Strathcona, the aged British commissioner for Canada, who is critically ill with a cerebral affection, is nearing the end. Physicians were unable to hold out much hope.

Speech Quiz Opens at Mason. Washington, Jan. 21.—The special congressional committee appointed to inquire into the conduct in office of Federal Judge Emory Speer of the southern district of Georgia, began its hearings.

11 SAILORS TRAPPED

LIEUTENANT AND MEN GO DOWN IN SUBMARINE A-7.

Efforts Still Being Made to Raise Warship But All Hopes of Rescuing Men Is Gone.

Plymouth, Jan. 20.—An all-day search by a fleet of torpedo boats, to which were attached cables to sweep the bottom of Whitman bay, failed to locate the sunken British submarine, A-7 on Sunday. Although hope of any of the crew being alive was long ago given up—six hours' being the maximum time they could breathe—the search for the ship—A-7—was continued.

Desperate efforts were made on Friday to rescue Lieutenant Welman of the British navy and a crew of 11 men from submarine "A-7" which sank during maneuvers in Whitman bay. Whether the men are dead or alive had not been established on Friday, but navy officials here expressed the opinion that all had perished.

The exact spot where the little vessel sank has not been definitely fixed. The "A-7," in company with the "A-8" and "A-9," made a plunge about which ended in maneuvers. Its sister ships came to the surface at the end of the maneuvers, but nothing has been seen of the "A-7" since it opened its valves and dived.

When the officers of the other vessels realized that their sister boat was in distress they sent out signals for aid. Rescue boats were immediately rushed to the vicinity where the "A-7" went down. They threw out grappling irons and dragged the bay into darkness set in, but their efforts were fruitless.

The "A-7" was in charge of Lieut. Gilbert A. Welman, who had as an aid another officer. A number of the men aboard were making their first trip in a submarine.

NEWS FROM FAR AND NEAR

COL. GOETHEL'S CANAL CHIEF

Wins Fight to Keep Politics Out of Panama and Will Have Power to Appoint 2,500 Men.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Col. George W. Goethals, to be permanent governor of the Panama canal zone, was named on high authority here on Friday. He has won the fight to keep the canal out of politics and will have almost autocratic power in the appointment of 2,500 men who will compose the operating force. He is to be given this power because of the clumsiness and unwieldiness that would follow if the same power were vested in a commission.

FLEE LAVA AGAIN TO IGNORE MINE WAR

TWO ERUPTIONS OF VOLCANO SAKURA-JIMA AND QUAKES CAUSE TERROR.

Geologist Okada Asserts Craters Will Continue to Be Active—Official Report Shows Loss of Life Is About 10,000.

Kagoshima, Japan, Jan. 20.—The volcano Sakura-Jima is again active, two eruptions occurred on Saturday, accompanied by a severe earthquake, causing the collapse of many more buildings. Numbers of the inhabitants of Kagoshima, who had returned again fled in terror from the city. Ashes are falling thickly.

The volcanoes continued very active all day and emitted great quantities of stones and ashes. Numerous explosions occurred and poisonous gases were ejected, making breathing difficult. The emperor's envoy has found it impossible to make the trip around Sakura-Jima. There has been some looting here. The sea in the Gulf of Kagoshima seemed to be boiling, and the quantity of floating pumice stones was so great that it prevented navigation.

Blue jackets from the Japanese fleet discovered a native craft containing 16 refugees from Sakura who were in a starving condition. They reported that, owing to the floating masses of pumice stones and the high seas, they had been unable to steer their boat and had spent three days adrift at the mercy of the elements and without a morsel of food.

The geologist Okada is of the opinion that Sakura-Jima will continue in eruption for a month. About seven-tenths of the island is a desert of lava and the remaining land is in such a hopeless condition that it must be abandoned. Fifteen hundred of the 2,000 houses on the island were buried. The estimated damage on this account is $5,000,000. How to deal with the islanders is a great problem, the professor says, but evidently they must migrate.

Tokio, Jan. 20.—An indication that the loss of life on the island of Sakura may be much larger than has been supposed is given in a report received on Saturday here from an official of the interior department, that 8,000 out of Sakura's estimated population of 19,000 has been abandoned.

Refuse to Give Up A 1914 STATE FAIR Business and Hotel Men Try to Raise Necessary Funds. MAKE STINGING REBUKE. Thomas Saxe of State Fair Board Says There is a Strong Sentiment for a State Fair Through-out City.

REFUSE TO GIVE UP A 1914 STATE FAIR

Business and Hotel Men Try to Raise Necessary Funds.

MAKE STINGING REBUKE

Thomas Saxe of State Fair Board Says There is a Strong Sentiment for a State Fair Through-out City.

Madison.—That Milwaukee will not consent readily to abandon plans for a state fair this year has been made evident. The action of the Milwaukee Hotel Men's association, urging the fair has been commended heartily by the Citizens' Business League.

Said J. P. Keenan, secretary of the league: "I've noticed with a good deal of pleasure the action taken by the citizens of Milwaukee. I believe who will consent to the present action, which is being taken so frequently in the last few days by members of the league who will support the fair proposition."

"The state fair business properly belongs to our league. It has made a fight to support it and to keep it here and it is entirely in our sphere to urge it and bring persons to Milwaukee."

"Prospects for a fair are bright. Now the northern counties are rallying to its support. The fair is being held in Antigo, next week and we are sure that they will gladly aid in its financing."

Thomas Saxe, member of the league and of the state fair board, authorized the following: "I am much pleased with the action of the hotel men. It shows that there are people here and many of them who are anxious to help the fair along. Contrary to the statement of the 'Merchants and Manufacturers' directors there is a strong sentiment throughout the city for a good fair this year. I am sure that the citizens will support it liberally."

Teachers to Meet in Green Bay. President A. W. Burton, superintendent of public schools of Green Bay, has about completed a program for the Northeastern Wisconsin Teachers' association for the convention which will be held in Green Bay for the second time last year on Feb. 6 and 7.

As was the case last year, a theater has been engaged for the principal meetings. Among the speakers engaged will be prominent educators of Wisconsin and several other states.

For the morning session, Friday, Feb. 6, the program includes addresses by C. P. Cary, state superintendent of schools, on "What Can the School Do to Develop the Qualities Which Constitute Leadership?" and L. D. Coffman, of the University of Illinois on the subject, "The Three Purposes of the Public School."

The addresses for the afternoon program on the first day were by H. W. Shroyer, of Southern Illinois Normal university on "The Education Value of Literature," by Paul C. H. Keller of Appleton high school, on "Democracy and the Elementary Teacher," and by Prof. Coffman on "Habit Formation."

The association will set aside things educational at night and the teachers will seek recreation at the theater, moving picture shows, a concert at Union Congregational church and a public school gymnastic and musical program at Turner hall.

Two addresses are scheduled for Saturday morning, Feb. 7, one by J. R. Hoel of Chicago Normal college, on "The Improvement of Our English Language," and the other by E. C. Warner, superintendent of the Saginaw, Mich., schools, on "Universal Peace and the School."

Special departments for those interested in particular studies have been provided by the executive committee for this convention. Meetings will be held for those who are interested in music, drawing, physical culture, kindergarten, day schools, manual training, scientific science, history and algebra, and geometry, Latin and German, physics and chemistry, configuration and evening schools.

Plan Better Live Stock. Presentation of a plan for statewide improvement of live stock will be one of the most important features of the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association in Madison February 6 and 7. G. C. Humphrey, chief of the division of agriculture, has worked out a plan which, it is believed, will be especially effective in encouraging live stock production in the newer sections and will announce it at this convention. J. R. Wheeler, chairman agricultural committee, Wisconsin Bankers' association; Roy Debee, editor of Lake Superior Farmer, and E. H. Webster, associate editor of Hoard's Dairyman, are scheduled to discuss special phases of live stock production.

Compensation Report Ready. The second annual report, just issued by the industrial commission, holds information that will be of vital interest and importance to employers, working men and lawyers throughout the state. The new 80-page report covers the operation of the workmen's compensation act for the year ending June 30, 1913.

The new report is sent to every lawyer in Wisconsin, and within another week will be placed in the hands of every employer.

Church Fairs Exempted. The Wisconsin state board of health pronounces as erroneous reports, that under the new hotel and restaurant inspection law, churches and lodges which serve meals for pay must take out licenses and pay $2 a year.

The attorney general held that saloons serving free lunch are exempt from the law, but that if meals were sold in saloons the law would be deemed. The law applies only to places where meals are served for pay as a part of the business.

Poultry Farmers Elect. The Wisconsin Poultry association had an exhibit of 1,500 birds by 176 breeders. The officers, elected are: President, F. B. Sweeney, Argyle; vice-presidents, M. C. Gerard, Stoughton, and J. R. Love, Waukesha; secretary, P. A. Kennedy, Madison; treasurer, J. G. Halpin, Madison; directors, J. R. Love, Waukesha; W. L. Bell, Arlington; W. M. Symonds, Williams; C. Chapman, Platteville; M. C. Gerard, Stoughton; William Thomas, Belleville; F. A. Kennedy, Madison; F. D. Sweeney, Argyle.

FAVOR DOMESTIC SERVICE

According to reports of Wisconsin free employment offices, there were 115 applicants for every 100 jobs offered in December, 1912, while in December, 1913, showed 238 applicants for every 100 vacant places.

Milwaukee shows 256 applicants for every 100 jobs, while Superior reports 130. Unemployment is greater among factory girls and women who work by the day. An increasing number are going into domestic service. More positions were obtained through the state employment offices in December, 1912 than in December, 1911—1,988, as compared with 1,587.

The outlook for 1914 seems bright, but many factory managers think it will be several months before business gets into full swing again. The only work that seems available now for the unemployed in the state is ice harvesting, which will begin shortly, and short jobs at cleaning and repainting.

Steam Men Elect. The Master Steam and Hot Water Fitters' association of Wisconsin, in its fourth annual convention, elected the following officers: President, Hugo O. P. Franko, Milwaukee; vice-president, James Sullivan, Stevens Point; secretary, Albert Luehke, Milwaukee; treasurer, Fred Kaufmann, Milwaukee; sergeant-at-arms, J. M. Blefeld, Watertown. Board of directors, E. H. Sonnichsen, Sheboygan; Frank Kraft, Souderton; George F. Roeker, Green Bay and James Smollen, Racine.

Cranberry Growers Name Heads. At the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Cranberry Growers' association, held in Grand Rapids, the following officers were elected: President, Andrew Sears, Grand Rapids; vice-president, O. O. Potter, Warren; secretary, H. J. Ebbart, Black River Falls. Addresses were made by S. M. White, of Cranston; S. R. Jones, of Leesey; of Cranston; S. R. Jones, of Leesey; of Cranston; S. R. TWO OSHKOSH BOYS GET HERO MEDALS Brave Efforts to Save Boy From Drowning Are Recognized by Commission.

HEROES' W.D.W. REWARDED

Mrs. W. C. Flinn Gets Medal and Money for Husband's Bravery When He Died At Orchard Lake.

Two 12 year old boys of Oshkosh, Wis., B. Donald Ryan and Paul J. Zentner, are the youngest heroes in America, according to awards granted to thirty individual heroic persons in the United States by the Carnegie hero fund commission.

The Oshkosh lads were given bronze medals for their brave attempt to save a drowning boy from Lake Winnebago, Dec. 1, 1911.

The Lehigh boy went through the ice while some distance from other skaters and went down before he could cry out. Ryan and Zentner saw the accident and hastened to the scene. Both went through the thin ice into the icy waters but despite their brave efforts they were unable to save their comrade and playmate.

The heroes were nearly frozen to death before they were hastened to warm places. Their clothing was stiff and only removed after difficulty. Neither suffered any ill effects from their experience.

Another Wisconsin award results from a near drowning at Orchard Lake, Wis., when Winifred C. Flinn died while saving Rachel S. Dallas, July 6, 1913. The widow gets a monthly pension of $45 at her present home in Detroit, as well as a bronze medal as a recognition for her husband's bravery.

CONVICTS FLEE; 7 DIE

EX-CONGRESSMAN THOMAS OF ILLINOIS SLAIN AND WOMAN SHOT DURING BATTLE.

Shankers of State Penitentiary at Oklahoma Attempt to Shoot Way to Liberty, With Girl as Shield, and Engagement With Poole Follows.

McIntosh, Okla., Jan. 21.—As the result of an attempt on the part of three prisoners to escape from the state penitentiary here on Monday, seven men are dead and one woman is wounded.

The dead: P. C. Oates, deputy sheriff; P. C. Coffey, guard; H. M. Decker, Bertillon man.

Judge John R. Thomas, formerly congressman from Illinois; Charles Reed, prisoner.

The injured: Miss Mary Foster, prison stenographer, shot in leg.

J. W. Martin, turnkey; shot in chest.

C. B. Woods, guard; shot in arm.

Judge Thomas, a Muskegon attorney, was formerly congressman from Illinois, a federal judge and a member of the state code commission. He served five terms in congress from the Krypt (Ill.) district.

Reed, Lane and Kuntz, the three prisoners, stormed the guard, shooting the three prison officials and Judge Thomas, who was in the penitentiary consulting a client.

The prisoners then rushed to the penitentiary office and at the point of revolvers forced F. C. Rice and Miss Mary Foster, the latter a penitentiary stenographer, to go with them to a buggy near the penitentiary and get in. A bullet from one of the prisoners' guns entered the leg of Miss Foster. An alarm was sounded and guards on horseback were sent in pursuit of the fugitives.

In the meantime the sheriff of Pittsburg county had been notified and asked to quickly summon a posse of gunmen. Before the prisoners had gone more than a half mile from the penitentiary, however, they were overtaken by the penitentiary guards. A battle took place on the highway in which all three of the convicts were shot to death. Gov. Lee Cruise was notified of the outbreak over long distance by Warden Dick.

The first intimation prison officials had that anything was wrong was when the men grabbed the two guards and marched them in front of them into the penitentiary office. Deputy Warden Oates was in the office talking with Judge Thomas of Muskegon.

As the men entered they pointed their pistols at Oates. Oates jumped to his feet and began to fire, but his aim was poor, because he was afraid of hitting the guards, who were serving as bait for the prisoners. At the second shot from Oates' pistol the men shot Oates and the others to death. While they were fleeing in the buggy, pursued by the mounted posse, Miss Foster fell out of the vehicle. Then the guards closed in and shot the prisoners to death.

LIEUTENANT AND MEN GO DOWN IN SUBMARINE A-7.

Efforts Still Being Made to Raise Warship But All Hopes of Rescuing Men Is Gone.

Plymouth, Jan. 20.—An all-day search by a fleet of torpedo boats, which were attached cables to sweep the bottom of Whitland bay, failed to locate the sunken British submarine, A-7 on Sunday. Although hope of any of the crew being alive was long ago given up—six hours being the maximum time they could breathe after the ship sank—the search will be resumed.

Desperate efforts were made on Friday to rescue Lieutenant Welman of the British navy and a crew of 11 men from submarine "A-7" which sank during maneuvers in Whitland bay.

Whether the men are dead or alive had not been established on Friday, but navy officials have expressed the opinion that all had perished.

The exact spot where the little vessel sank has not been definitely fixed. The "A-7," in company with the "A-8" and "A-9," made a plunge about while engaged in maneuvers. Its sister ships came to the surface at the end of the maneuvers, but nothing has been seen of the "A-7" since it opened its valves and dived.

When the officers of the other vessels realized that their sister boat was in distress they sent out signals for aid. Rescue boats were immediately rushed to the vicinity where the "A-7" went down. They threw out grappling irons and dragged the bay until darkness set in, but their efforts were fruitless.

The "A-7" was in charge of Lieut. Gilbert M. Welman, who had as an aid another officer. A number of the seamen aboard were making their first trip in a submarine.

The prisoners then rushed to the penitentiary office and at the point of revolvers forced F. C. Rice and Miss Mary Foster, the latter a penitentiary stenographer, to go with them to a buggy near the penitentiary and get in. A bullet from one of the prisoners' guns entered the leg of Miss Foster. An alarm was sounded and guards on horseback were sent in pursuit of the fugitives.

In the meantime the sheriff of Pittsburg county had been notified and asked to quickly summon a posse of gunmen. Before the prisoners had gone more than a half mile from the penitentiary, however, they were overtaken by the penitentiary guards. A battle took place on the highway in which all three of the convicts were shot to death. Gov. Lee Cruise was notified of the outbreak over long distance by Warden Dick.

The first intimation prison officials had that anything was wrong was when the men grabbed the two guards and marched them in front of them into the penitentiary office. Deputy Warden Oates was in the office talking with Judge Thomas of Muskegon.

As the men entered they pointed their pistols at Oates. Oates jumped to his feet and began to fire, but his aim was poor, because he was afraid of hitting the guards, who were serving as bait for the prisoners. At the second shot from Oates' pistol the men shot Oates and the others to death. While they were fleeing in the buggy, pursued by the mounted posse, Miss Foster fell out of the vehicle. Then the guards closed in and shot the prisoners to death.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT AND HIS FIANCEE

The recent announcement of the engagement of Kermit Roosevelt, son of Colonel Roosevelt, and Miss Belle Willard, was received with great interest. Miss Willard is the daughter of the American ambassador to Spain and is considered one of the most beautiful girls in Richmond, Va., her home city.

FLEE LAVA AGAIN

TWO ERUPTIONS OF VOLCANO SAKURA-JIMA AND QUAKES CAUSE TERROR.

Geologist Okada Asserts Craters Will Continue to Be Active—Official Report Shows Loss of Life Is About 10,000.

Kagoshima, Japan, Jan. 20.—The volcano Sakura-jima is again active, two eruptions occurred on Saturday, accompanied by a severe earthquake, causing the collapse of many more buildings. Numbers of the inhabitants of Kagoshima who had returned again fled in terror from the city. Ashes are falling thickly.

The volcanoes continued very active all day and emitted great quantities of stones and ashes. Numerous explosions occurred and poisonous gases were ejected, making breathing difficult. The emperor's envoy has found it impossible to make the trip around Sakura-jima. There has been some looting here. The sea in the Gulf of Kagoshima seemed to be boiling and the quantity of floating pumice stones was so great that it prevented navigation.

Jackboats from the Japanese fleet discovered a native craft containing 16 refugees from Sakura who were in a starving condition. They reported that, owing to the floating masses of pumice stones and the high seas, they had been unable to steer their boat and had spent three days adrift at the mercy of the elements and without a morsel of food.

The geologist Okada is of the opinion that Sakura-jima will continue in eruption for a month.

About seven-tenths of the island is a desert of lava and the remaining land is in such a hopeless condition that it must be abandoned. Fifteen hundred of the 2,000 houses on the island were buried. The estimated damage on this account is $5,000,000. How to deal with the islanders is a great problem, the professor says, but evidently they must migrate.

Tokio, Jan. 20.—An indication that the loss of life on the island of Sakurajima may be much larger than has been supposed is given in a report received on Saturday here from an official of the interior department sent to Kagoshima. He reports that 5,000 out of Sakurajima's estimated population of 15,000 has been accounted for.

GORGAS AS SURGEON GENERAL

President Nominates Colonel Head Medical Officer of the United States Army.

Washington, Jan. 19.—President Wilson sent to the senate the nomination of Col. L. G. Gorgas to be surgeon general of the army. He will succeed Surgeon General Torney, deceased. REFUSE TO GIVE UP

A 1914 STATE FAIR

Business and Hotel Men Try to Raise Necessary Funds.

MAKE STINGING REBUKE

Thomas Saxe of State Fair Board Says There is a Strong Sentiment for a State Fair Through-out City.

Madison.—That Milwaukee will not consent readily to abandon plans for a state fair this year has been made evident. The action of the Milwaukee Hotel Men's association, urging the Citizens' Business League.

Said J. P. Keenan, secretary of the league: "I've notified with a good deal of pleasure the action taken by the hotel men. They are only a portion of the citizens of Milwaukee, I believe, who will contribute generously. I have been telephoned and called on frequently in the last few days by members of the league who will support the fair proposition."

"The state fair business properly belongs to our league. It has made a fight to support it and to keep it here and it is entirely in our sphere to urge it and bring persons to Milwaukee."

"Prospects for a fair are bright. Now the northern counties are rallying to its support. I'll be present at their meeting in Andigo next week, and am sure that they will gladly aid in its financing."

Thomas Saxe, member of the league and of the state fair board, authorized the following:

"I am much pleased with the action of the hotel men. It shows that there are people here and many of them who are anxious to help the fair along. Contrary to the statement of the 'Merchants and Manufacturers' directors, there is a strong sentiment throughout the city for a good fair this year. I am sure that the citizens will support it liberally."

Railroads Must Pay More Taxes.

Railroad corporations having properties in Wisconsin are called upon to pay $880,161.25 more taxes for 1914 than for 1913, according to final assessment made by the state tax commission. The final valuation fixed by the commission for the present assessment is $340,242,000, which is an increase over the valuation of 1913 of $13,898,960 and the resulting tax is $4,720,523.30, as compared with $3,860,368.07 in 1913.

While this increase is borne equally by all the property subject to taxation according to their assessed valuation, the greater part of it is born by the Chicago & Northwestern and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul companies, due, of course, to the fact that their properties are the most extensive. The tax of these two companies is fixed by the commission at $1,628,720.56 for the Chicago & Northwestern and $1,382,241.25 for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

The increase for these two roads alone amounts to $634,625.

While there appears an increase of nearly $14,000,000 in the assessed valuation the large increase in the amount of tax levied is due to the fact that the rate of taxation is increased as compared with a year ago on account of the increase of the general property tax throughout the state which is used as the basis for the assessment of railroad companies.

This tax, levied against the railroads, is due in two equal installments, the first payable in February and the second in August.

The amount of the final assessment and taxes on companies where the tax exceeds $10,000 are:

BUSINESS NOT TO BE HAMPERED, SAYS WILSON

President Outlines Plan for Regulation of Trusts.

SQUARE BUSINESS WITH LAW

Explicit Definition of the Policy and Meaning of Existing Laws is First Importance—Antagonism Between Business and Government, is Now Over.

Washington, Jan. 29.—President Wilson delivered the following message today before a joint session of the two houses of congress:

Gentlemen of the congress:

"In my report (On the State of the Union), which I and the privilege of reading to you on the 1st of December last, I ventured to reserve for additional legislation regarding the very difficult and intricate matter of trusts and monopolies. The time now seems opportune to turn to that great question; not only because the currency legislation, which absorbed your attention and the attention of the country in December, is now disposed of, but also because opinion appears to be clearing about us with singular rapidity in this other great field of action. In the matter of the currency it cleared suddenly and very rapidly after the much-debated act was passed; in respect to the monopolies which have multiplied about us and in regard to the various means by which they have been organized and maintained, it seems to be coming to a clear and all but universal agreement in anticipation of some action, as if by the way of preparation, making the way easier to see and easier to set out upon with confidence and without confusion of counsel.

Business of Interpretation.

"Legislation has its atmosphere like everything else and the atmosphere of accommodation and mutual understanding which we now breathe with so much refreshment is matter of sincere congratulation. It ought to make our task very much less difficult and embarrassing than it would have been had we been obliged to continue to act amidst the atmosphere of suspicion and antagonism which has so long made it impossible to approach such questions with dispassionate fairness. Constructive legislation, when successful, is always the embodiment of convincing experience and of the mature public opinion which finally springs out of that experience. Legislation is a business of interpretation, not of origination; and it is now plain what the opinion is to which we must give effect in this matter. It is not recent or hasty opinion. It springs out of the experience of a whole generation. It has clarified itself by long contest, and those who for a long time battled with it and sought to change it are now frankly and honorably yielding to it and seeking to conform their actions to it.

"The great businessmen who organized and conducted monopoly and those who administered it in actual everyday transactions have years after years until now, either denied its existence or justified it as necessary for the effective maintenance and development of the vast business processes of the country in the modern circumstances of trade and manufacture and finance; but all the while opinion has made head against them. The average business man is convinced that the ways of liberty are also the ways of peace and the ways of success as well; and at last the masters of business on the great scale have begun to yield their preference and purpose, perhaps their judgment also, in honorable surrender.

Will Not Hamper.

"What we are purposing to do, therefore, is happily not to hamper or interfere with business as enlightened business men prefer to do it, or in any sense to put it under the ban. The antagonism between business and government is over. We are now about to give expression to the best business judgment of America, to what we know to be the business conscience and honor of the land. The government and business men are ready to meet each other half way in a common effort to square business methods with both public opinion and law. The best informed men of the business world condemn the methods and processes and consequences of monopoly as we condemn them; and the instinctive judgment of the vast majority of business men everywhere goes with them. We shall now be their spokesmen. That is the strength of our position and the sure prospect of what will ensue when our reasonable work is done.

"When serious contest ends, when men unite in opinion and purpose, those who are to change their ways of doing things, joining with those who ask for the change, it is possible to effect it in the way in which prudent and thoughtful and patriotic men would wish to see it brought about, with as few, as slight, as easy and simple business readjustments as possible in the circumstances, nothing essential disturbed, nothing torn up by the roots, no parts rest assured which can be left in wholesome combination. Fortunately, no measures of sweeping or novel change are necessary. It will be understood that our object is not to unsettle business or anywhere seriously to break its established courses. On the contrary, we desire the law to be now about to pass to be the bulwark and safeguard of industry against the forces that have disturbed it. What we have to do can be done in a new spirit, in thoughtful moderation, without revolution of an untoward kind.

Private Monopoly Intolerable

"We are all agreed that private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable, and our program is founded upon that conviction. It will be a comprehensive but not a radical or unacceptable program, and these are its terms, the changes which opinion deliberately sanctions and for which business waits.

"It awaits with acquiescence in the first place for laws which will effectively prohibit and prevent such interlockings of the personnel of the directorates of great corporations—banks and railroads, industrial, commercial and public service bodies—as in effect result in making those who borrow and those who lend practically one and the same, those who sell and those who buy but the same persons trading with one another under different names and in different combinations, and those whose affect to compete, in fact, partners and masters of some whole field of business. Sufficient time should be allowed, of course, in which to effect these changes of organization without inconvenience or confusion.

"Such a prohibition will work much more than a mere negative good by correcting the serious evils which have arisen because, for example, the men who have been the directing spirits of the great investment banks have usurped the place which belongs to independent industrial management in its behalf. It will bring new men, new energies, a new spirit of initiative, new blood into the management of our great business enterprises. It will open the field of industrial development and origination to scores of men who have been obliged to serve when their abilities entitled them to direct. It will immensely lighten the young men coming on and will greatly enrich the business activities of the whole country.

Harm and Injustice Done.

"In the second place, business men as well as those who direct public affairs now recognize and recognize with painful clearness, the great harm and injustice which has been done to many, if not all, of the great railroad systems of the country by the way in which they have been financed and their own distinctive interests subordinated to the interests of the men who financed them and of other business enterprises which those men wished to promote.

"The country is ready therefore to accept and accept with relief as well as approval, a law which will confer upon the interstate commerce commission the power to superintend and regulate the financial operations by which the railroads are henceforth to be supplied with the money they need for their proper development to meet the rapidly growing requirements of the country for increased and improved facilities of transportation. We cannot postpone action in this matter without leaving the railroads exposed to many serious handicaps and hazards; and the prosperity of the country and the prosperity of the railroads are inseparably connected. Upon this question those who are chiefly responsible for the actual management and operation of the railroads have spoken very plainly and very earnestly, with a purpose we ought to be quick to accept it. It will be one step and a very important one, toward the necessary separation of the business of production from the business of transportation.

"The business of the country awaits also, long awaited and justly so, because it could not obtain further and more explicit legislative definition of the policy and meaning of the existing anti-trust laws. Nothing hampers business like uncertainty. Nothing daunts or discourages it like the necessity to take chances, to run the risk of falling under the condemnation of the law before it can make sure just what the law is.

Definition Now Possible.

"Surely we are sufficiently familiar with the actual processes and methods of monopoly and of the many hurtful restraints of trade to make definition possible, at any rate up to the limits of what experience has disclosed. These practices, being now abundantly disclosed, can be explicitly and item by item, forbidden by statute in as plain a form as will practically eliminate uncertainty, the law itself and the penalty being made equally plain.

"And the business men of the country desire something more than that the menace of legal process in these matters be made explicit and intelligible. They desire the advice, the definite guidance and information, which can be supplied by an administrative body, an interstate trade commission.

"The opinion of the country would instantly approve of such a commission. It would not wish to see it empowered to make terms with monopoly or in any way to assume control of business as if the government made itself responsible, as an indispensable commission only as an indispensable instrument of information and publicity, as a clearing house for the facts by which both the public mind and the managers of great business undertakings should be guided, and as an instrumentality for doing justice to business where the processes of the courts or the natural forces of correction outside the courts are inadequate to adjust the remedy to the wrong in a way that will meet all the equities and circumstances of the case.

"Producing industries, for example, which have passed the point up to which combination may be consistent with the public interest and the freedom of trade, cannot always be dissected into their component units as readily as railroad companies or similar organizations can be. Their dissolution by ordinary legal process may oftentimes involve financial consequences likely to overwhelm the security market and bring upon it breakdown and confusion. There ought to be an administrative commission capable of directing and shaping such corrective processes, not only in aid of the courts but also by independent suggestion, if necessary.

Make Punishment Certain.

"Inasmuch as our object and the spirit of our action in these matters is to meet business half way in its processes of self-correction and dislodge its legitimate course as little as possible, we ought to see to it, and the judgment of practical and sagacious men of affairs everywhere would applaud us if we did see to it that penalties and punishments should fall, not upon business itself, to its confusion and interruption, but upon the individuals who use the instrumentalities of business to do things which public policy and sound business practice condemn. Every act of business is done at the command or upon the initiative of some ascertainable person or group of persons. These should be held individually responsible and the punishment should fall upon them, not upon the business organization of which they make illegal use. It should be one of the main objects of our legislation to divest such persons of their corporate cloak and deal with them as with those who do not represent their corporations, but merely by deliberate intention break the law. Business men the country through would, I am sure, applaud us if we were to take effective steps to see that the officers and directors of great bodies were prevented from bringing them and the business of the country into disrepute and danger.

"Other questions remain which will need very thoughtful and practical treatment. Enterprises, in these modern days of great individual fortunes, are oftentimes interlocked, not by being under the control of the same directors, but by the fact that the greater part of their corporate stock is owned by a single person or group of persons who are in some way intimately related in interest.

Holding Companies.

"We are agreed, I take it, that holding companies should be prohibited, but what of the controlling private ownership of individuals or actually co-operative groups of individuals? Shall the private owners of capital stock be suffered to be themselves in effect holding companies? We do not wish, I suppose, to forbid the purchase of stocks by any person who pleases to buy them in such quantities as he can afford, or in any way arbitrarily to limit the sale of stocks to bonafide purchasers. Shall we require the owners of stock, when their voting power in several companies which ought to be independent of one another would constitute actual control, to make selection in which of them they will exercise their right to vote? This question I venture for your consideration.

"There is another matter in which imperative considerations of justice and fair play suggests thoughtful remedial action. Not only do many of the combinations effected or sought to be effected in the industrial world work an injustice upon the public in general; they also directly and seriously injure the individuals who are put out of business in one fair way or another by the many dialoging and exterminating forces of combination. I hope that we shall agree in giving private individuals who claim to have been injured by these processes the right to found their suits for redress upon the facts and judgments of the courts, and entered in suits by the government where the government has upon its own initiative sued the combinations complained of and won its suit, and that the statute of limitations shall be suffered to run against such litigants only from the date of the conclusion of the government's action.

Individual Justice.

"It is not fair that the private litigant should be obliged to set up and establish again the facts which the government has proved. It is not fair, it has not the power to move the government has command of the courts. This shall individual justice be done while the processes of business are rectified and squared with the general conscience.

"I have laid the case before you, no doubt as it lies in your own mind, as it lies in the thought of the country. What must every candid man say of the suggestions I have laid before you, of the plain obligations of which I have reminded you? That these are new things for which the country is not prepared? No; but that they are old things now familiar, and must of course be undertaken if we are to square our laws with the thought and desire of the country. Until these things are done, candid business men the country over will be unsatisfied. They are in these things our mentors and colleagues. We are now about to write the additional articles of our constitution of peace, the peace that is honor and freedom and prosperity.

Unaccustomed Effort.

"I understand Percival van Pelt is under a physician's care."

"Yes, one morning when his office boy told him he understood to tear a date off the calendar without help and he overreacted himself."

Locality Counts.

"I am going to lay the scene of my play in Jamaica."

"Why so?"

"Because, then, it will have plenty of ginger."

Naturally.

"Did you see where some man they put in prison went on a hunger strike and they put a kettle of beer in his cell for him to take up?"

"What happened?"

"He put it down."

"An Eye for Business."

"This income tax may do a lot of good," said Mr. Cassius Chess.

"In what way?"

"If the government can educate men to make complete collections I'll give 'em better money to work for me."

THE PASSING OF THE "WILD WEST"

THE march of civilization has so rapidly overrun the face of our globe that during recent years many of these places which were formerly little known, except to savages or wandering white hunters, are today becoming thickly populated, while the native savage and wild game alike have disappeared forever from their ancient haunts. In few countries is this more marked than in the famous Wild West of America. The hardy frontiersmen or backwoodsmen of a few decades past would marvel indeed could they now see what once were the great rolling prairies or dense forests of Wyoming and Montana. Gone for ever are the vast herds of buffalo, antelope and wapiti which roamed the boundless plains, gone also are the huge virgin forests, while the sorry remnants of the Red Indian tribes whose ancestors hunted and fought in these fair lands remain confined in restricted areas, where the vices, diseases and strong drinks of the white man are rapidly thinning their numbers.

Across the prairies, in all directions, now run miles upon miles of railway lines, bringing with them their usual accompaniment of settlers; and over all the plains the hand of man is marked by means of numerous inartistic wooden dwellings, wire fences or irrigation ditches, stretching far as the eye can see on either side. In the forests, too, huge burnt areas, or desolate-looking tree stumps, denote where fires and axes have wrought their havoc. Even the far-famed cowpuncher, resplendent in his picturesque costume, with lasso hanging on his saddle and six-shooters protruding from belt or pockets, is a thing of the past, although here and there one encounters a splendid youth, who smokes cigarettes while he apes the manners and costume of his predecessors, but who is often too idle to throw a rope, or totally incapable of riding a bad buckjumper or of using effectively the revolver which he proudly displays. In fact, if most of these modern cowboys attempted to draw his gun at an old-fashioned saloon gathering in a "wide-open" town of the west, before he could touch the trigger he would have been as full of lead as a plum pudding is full of raisins. For, alas! the glory and glamour of the wild west has departed forever.

First came the lumbering ox wagons, with their hardy owners, emigrants and hunters, a race of men, scarred and weather-beaten, fighting their way grimly, inch by inch, to open the new Eldorado. Next by foot they drove the Indians and game before them, and for years barely held their own in these unknown lands. Then came that mighty factor, steam, and the steel roads with their high-powered locomotives, today conveying the settlers or tourists in a few hours across those once desolate prairies, to traverse which once took the old pioneer as many weeks to accomplish. In consequence, he who today sets out in quest of sport through such a country as Wyoming must be prepared for a series of rude shocks if he hopes to find anything approaching the state of affairs there about which he has read in the books of his youth.

The splendid buffalo is extinct; but a few decayed bones or relics of a skull, the last traces of an animal which roamed in countless thousands over the prairies, and were wantonly exterminated partly by hunters for their hides, and partly by settlers to make way for their cattle. The curious pronghorn antelope also has almost been wiped out in these districts. But the saddest of all, perhaps, is to see the present state to which the finest deer on earth, the American wapiti, has been reduced. This noble beast, which was formerly a denizen of the open country, has been driven to seek refuge in the densest forests, where it is hard indeed for any number of them to obtain sufficient food, and in consequence the type and size of their antlers shows a marked depreciation in modern years. As every one knows, a harbor of refuge has been found for them by the United States government in the Yellowstone park, and here the tourist may see, face to face, grazing in bands, the semi-tame remnants of the once vast herds of wapiti. Outside this sanctuary, on every side, as soon as the season opens, each valley or pass which leads from the Yellowstone to the surrounding country is peopled with anxious sportsmen, or meat-hunters, all camped and waiting for those unwary animals which may roam beyond the confines of their reservation.

In those outlying districts, where a few cunning hands of wapiti still survive, they have entirely changed their habits during the early part of the season. Formerly the herd would be found grazing, or roaming through the low-lying open parks, while throughout the day and night the forests would echo to that melodious whistling call of the bulls. But today, if a hunter seeks the so-called American "elk," he must perforce look in different places to those frequented by the old-time hunters. Far up, on the very edge of the timberline, feeding and climbing almost like a mountain sheep among steep crags, and on the verge of snow-line, we now find the few survivors of the splendid animals. And so terrified are they by the constant presence of their natural enemy, man, with his innumerable camp fires and attendant noises, that the bulls seldom dare give utterance to their challenging calls. So true is this that the writer after spending many weeks during the past season in the wilds of Wyoming, and heard a wapiti whistling on two occasions, and moreover, throughout this period only one and one head white shooting at, says C. E. Radcliffe, in Country Life. It is true this is a noble head, and one of the finest brought out of that country for some time past, but the capture of this head entailed many weeks of hard work, many scores of miles traveling, and many thousands of feet of hard climbing, in a country which a few years ago was teeming with good heads.

In the same way the bears and big brown sheep of the Rocky mountains have almost become a thing of the past. Even the very numerous mule deer have disappeared from their former haunts, and in much-hunted localities are only to be found on the highest points where timber grows. Late in the season, when heavy snow falls, bands of wapiti and mule deer are driven from their refuge in the Yellowstone park and move down to lower grounds in such places as Jackson's Hole or the valley of the Snake river. Woe be to these luckless wanderers if the open season is still in force, for at the head of every pass leading out of the game reserve are armed bodies of mountaineers, who shoot on sight, old or young, male or female, regardless of age or sex, every deer that is seen. More shame is it to the authorities who still permit the sale of deer meat in the surrounding towns.

Vast herds of deer congregate in the low grounds during severe winters, and many hundreds of them perish for want of food. It is no uncommon event for kind-hearted farmers to feed numbers of wapiti from their stores of hay. But the expense of this is more than these hard-worked individuals can stand, and something surely should be done by the United States authorities to provide for the needs of these fine animals, which have been driven from their winter feeding grounds by the settlers and their cattle.

The modes operandi of making a trip after wapiti is too well known to need description. If undertaken early in the season by a sportsman who is well equipped with men and pack-horses, the expedition is rather in the nature of a pleasant picnic. The climatic conditions in September and early October are generally perfect, while the absence of mosquitoes and other insect flies make these regions appear a Paradise to one who has done much big game hunting further northwest in the real wilds of North America, which are only now to be found in northern British Columbia and Alaska. But if a sportsman delays his trip until late in the fall, and then camps, as the writer has done, at an altitude of over ten thousand feet, he will find the early frosts and snow make life in a tent, even in Wyoming, rather colder than is necessary for personal comfort.

The way in which an American pack-horse can thread its way through dense timber, or follow a narrow, snake-like trail across dangerous rock slides, is little short of marvelous. It is an interesting sight to see a long line of these sure-footed animals threading their way in single file along the face of a dangerous precipice, often treading in loose, rolling rocks, in places where one false step means a sheer drop of two thousand or three thousand feet into empty space. Yet it is seldom that one falls off the trail. If this does happen, the owner may bid goodbye to his horse and all that he carries, and rarely anything but fragments are found afterwards on searching the valley below.

Strange to say, although the Wyoming wapiti have developed unwonted cunning in seeking their living and feeding grounds, the are still comparatively stupid animals to stalk. Especially is this the case with trailing bulls, when they are running in search of cows. Then, by means of whistling in a very poor imitative style of the bull's challenge, a solitary bull can often be called up to within a few yards of the hunter. The writer and his guide have thus been enabled to follow a bull for two miles through the forest, answering his repeated call at intervals, until finally they have come face to face a few yards

BOA CONSTRUCTION IN BANANA BUSINESS

Performs Peculiar Stunt for Public Amusement; State Refuses to Pay for Him.

WORKS ONCE A WEEK

South American Species is Added to Kansas Collection of Reptiles, Gila Monsters and Other More or Less Venomous Reptiles.

Topeka, Kan.—The state of Kansas is willing to pay a few hard dollars for dead snakes and birds and animals to be stuffed and kept in the museum, but when it comes to paying a single dollar for a live boa constrictor, the state balks. The executive council, composed of the governor, attorney general, secretary of state and state auditor, has refused to pay one good round dollar for a real South American boa constrictor. A few days ago a carload of bananas was received by one of the Topeka commission houses and just as the clerks were preparing to pick up a bunch of bananas, one noticed the snake coiled up in the bunch. It is not unusual to find tarantulas and poisonous spiders from the tropics in bananas but seldom are snakes found. A council of war was held and the men in the cold storage room put a sack around the bunch of bananas and then drove the snake out and later transferred the reptile to a bottle. Then the snake was brought to Mrs. H. H. Smythe, curator of the Geomorphological collection in the state house, and Mrs. Smythe bought the boa for one dollar to add to the collection of rattlesnakes, Gila monsters and other more or less venomous reptiles kept in cages on the fourth floor of the state house.

The boa was only 27 inches long, but he is lively and bumpy, and people who have read about the crushing powers of the boa are continually coming to the state house to see the little fellow work. He only works about once a week, though, and there are always plenty of mice and birds caught by the small boys for him to demonstrate upon. The snake watches a mouse run around about as a cat does, but all the time it moves its body a little nearer. Then suddenly there is a quick flip of the body and the mouse is caught in the coil, and its life crushed out almost instantly.

Noticed the Snake's Head.

The snake holds the mouse for several minutes and then coils it with its mouth and proceeds to swallow the animal whole. It is a pretty sight for the snake for several days.

The members of the executive council were invited up to see the snake perform the other day. They watched the snake get his breakfast. Then Mrs. Smythe presented the bill for one dollar for the snake, asking the state to pay for the reptile.

"I don't think we ought to allow live animals or snakes to be brought into the state house," said the governor.

"They might frighten children," said Charles Sessions.

"That's just like bull fighting," said Paul Davis.

"I move we disallow the bill," said Will Davis.

"Motion carried," said the governor, and Mrs. Smythe is out one dollar she had paid for Mr. Boa.

The state house janitors, maybe, were the real cause of the refusal of the state to pay the bill. One day last summer some one told a janitor that one of the rattlesnakes had escaped and for a week every janitor jumped whenever a piece of paper rattled behind them. They protested to the executive council against allowing the boa to remain in the state house.

HORSE ATE THE NAILS; SUIT

New Jersey Man Blames Carpenter's Carelessness for the Loss of a Steed.

Berlin, N. J.—Suit was brought in the Camden district court the other day by William Bishop, Jr., to recover $500 damages for the loss of a horse, because the animal died from eating nails. The defendants in the suit are Walter Wright and Thomas H. Wright, executors of the estate of Charles Wright, and James Hill, a contractor. Bishop asserts that on January 28, 1918, Hill was sent by Wright to repair a roof on a barn on the premises leased to Bishop by Wright. Hill, he alleges, carelessly dropped nails in the hayrack and the horse ate them with the hay and died as a result.

Music Eased the Pain.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Too weak to stand an anesthetic, Stephen Klumatsky, was lulled to sleep to the tune of "Highland Fling" while Dr. John N. Baslin repaired an artery in the boy's hand. A ten-year-old girl played the piano.

Chicken Smother, Boost Eggs.

New York.—Another excuse to boost eggs came through a South street here. One thousand chickens smothered in the store of M. Garlick.

Herman Knipfle of Almond visited with friends in the city the past week. Carl Olson and family of Almond are in the city visiting with relatives for a week.

—Anyone who desires the best in the line of pianos would do well to drop a card to Edwin Christopherson, Marshfield, Wis. I have some bargains.

John C. Parks, one of the progressive farmers of the town of Sherry, was a pleasant caller at this office on Thursday while in the city on business.

C. O. Hassell has been under the weather for several weeks past. While able to be about, he is unable to take any violent exercise or walk for any distance without suffering considerable pain and inconvenience.

Editors J. L. Sturdevant of Vau-sau, A. E. Barr of Marshfield and B. E. Walters of Mosinee were among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office on Thursday of last week. These gentlemen were here to attend the Episcopal meeting held here that evening.

Howard Crotteau, who is in the employ of the Nekosia-Edwards Co. with headquarters at Chicago spent Thursday and Friday in the city on business. He was accompanied on his return Friday evening by his sister, Mrs. John Bell, who will be a guest at his home for a week.

Several inches of snow fell in the vicinity on Sunday, January 25th, and since that time all rigs excepting autos have been traveling on runners. Before this time there was not enough snow for sleighing and it is seldom that snow holds off until such a late date in this part of the country.

T. A. Anderson, manager of the Progressive Creamery Co., was among the Tribune callers on Saturday. Mr. Anderson reports that business has been pretty good at the creamery of late notwithstanding the fact that it is winter and the season when there is not supposed to be much doing in this line.

A. N. Palmer, who is located at Kansas City, where he is engaged in the hardware business, writes the Tribune that he is getting along nicely and wishes to be remembered to his many friends in this city. He reports that last summer was somewhat hot and dry out in that part of the country but that the people there expect that the coming season will be the best that Kansas City has ever seen.

All railroads in the state now have to furnish free individual drinking cups on all trains. A law passed by a previous legislature denied the railroads permission to allow the public drinking cup to be used on trains. The new law goes a step further and compels railroads to furnish cups to all passengers who have paid for a transportation for ten consecutive miles on demand, which shall not have been previously used by another person.

Rev. E. C. Gear, T. H. Hanna, R. A. Cook and E. D. Johnson were over from Stevens Point on Thursday to attend the Episcopal meeting in this city, they making the trip by auto. They had rather bad luck on their return trip, having run out of oil several times and having to stop on the way, the last time one of them walking from near Mehan station to Plover, where a machine was telephoned for. They arrived home about 4:30 o'clock the following morning, and had they not all been good church members it is probable that some one of them would have used language that would not have looked well in print.

D. D. Conway's Airdale dog Sam was shot on Tuesday evening of last week and died a short time after, being found dead near the Zimmerman store on the west side. When the dog was found it was supposed to have been killed by an automobile, but a subsequent examination of the carcass revealed the fact that the animal had been shot in the back near the fore shoulder with a lead of fine shot, apparently from a .44 caliber gun or revolver. It is supposed that the dog was shot from a rig or auto, as the direction of the charge indicated that he had been shot from above. As the dog was a valuable one and greatly prized by Mr. Conway, it is needless to state that it will go hard with the perpetrator of the deed if he is discovered.

A. C. Koch, who is assistant cashier in the bank at Lebanon, S. D., was in the city on Saturday and paid the Tribune a pleasant call. Mr. Koch was called to this part of the country by the death of his grandmother, Mrs. Alvin Bookle. Mr. Koch returned home on Monday.

P. F. Bean, one of the old residents of the town of Hansen, and former county treasurer, was among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office on Thursday. Mr. Bean, while nearing the 70th milestone, is apparently as vigorous as many a man twenty years younger, and it is always a pleasure to meet him.

John Mess of the town of Marathon last week cut down a large pine tree on his land. Mr. Mess had still a few of the old original forest giants standing on his land until last week when he cut them down. One of these trees was over a hundred feet high and could be seen for miles around. This tree scaled 2,560 feet—Marathon Times.

Otto Scherman of the firm of Klingler, Lang and Scherman of Marshfield was in the city on Thursday last, viewing some of our people on the subject of C. automobiles. Otto Scherman reports that he has already made a number of sales for spring delivery and says that the indications are splendid for a good business the coming season.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Roenius and son and daughter departed on Saturday for Watertown where they will spend Sunday with relatives. From there Mr. Roenius went to Chicago to spend Monday on business and Tuesday evening he attended a big Elks blow-out in Milwaukee, going from there to Madison to attend the bowling tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Zeaman of Sigel had some friends and relatives at their home on Sunday to celebrate Mr. Zeaman's 87th birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Hopper, Mrs. Gust Bauch, Frank Zeaman and family, Mrs. E. T. Bodette and two daughters, Mrs. Alfred Canning, Mr. Andrew Lund, Miss Mabel Zeaman, Walter and Carl Zeaman.

John D. Kissinger who is a son of Jacob Kissinger of the town of Sigel, and who at one time made his home in this city, has been recently elected president of the new bank recently completed a new bank building of brick, 25x40 feet and two stories high. Mr. Kissinger's friends in this vicinity will be pleased to hear of his success in his present location.

Messrs. F. P. Peerenboom and G. D. Fritzinger were visitors at the Wood County Asylum at Marshfield on Thursday. They were shown through the institution by Superintendent Gilson and had a personal talk with the lady who was supposed to have been mistreated. She informed them that it was a fake and that she received the best of treatment. They enjoyed their visit very much and report the asylum a magnificent building.

Fred Pagel of Rudolph was among the callers at the Tribune office on Friday. Mr. Pagel wanted us to state that he was not the man that was put under bonds to keep the peace, it being another man by the same name. Mr. Pagel says that some of his neighbors have been shying off when they met him of late, thinking that possibly he might still be carrying one of those antiquated guns mentioned in a former article, but as he is not the man they need of any timidity when in his own right. The trouble comes about being two men by the same name. The correction is cheerfully made.

HEALTH BEFORE EVERYTHING.

More than 250 years ago Descartes declared that if any great improvement in the condition of mankind was to be brought about, Medicine would provide the means. (Bishop Spalding.)

The Health Instruction Bureau which conducts this column was established to make the scientific knowledge of health and disease available to the people who haven't the training or libraries of physicians. Prof. Irving Fisher states that the duration of life could be extended fifteen years were available knowledge utilized.

This column is designed to be of the greatest possible use to the greatest number. For that reason it is necessary to confine comment largely to subjects of general interest. The newspaper health service is a part of a broad plan to spread accurate scientific and yet popular information upon disease and health. Bulletins are now in course of preparation which will cover diseases in greater detail than is possible in the limited space permitted here.

Queries are being received by the bureau from people who desire personal advice and information. In many instances the questions and answers are too personal to put in public print. We welcome personal letters and are glad to answer them personally. It will be understood, of course, that the bureau cannot treat patients by correspondence. To do so is impossible, to attempt it, improper. It is the desire to make the Health Instruction Bureau as valuable to you as the Agricultural Department is to the farmer, or as the Weather Bureau is to the shipper.

The Panama Canal Zone demonstrates how knowledge saves life. It was a great engineering feat to dig the ditch. It was a greater feat to keep the diggers alive and healthy. It was the work of the sanitarians that permitted the United States to succeed where the French failed. Under the French administration the death rate was 240 per 1,000 inhabitants. Under the United States the death rate was less than 8 per 1,000.

It cost a great deal of money to secure that marvelous result. It is difficult to conceive of any expenditure more worth while than that which actually makes life and health secure.

Lecture on Medical Freedom.

(Contributed.)

The lecture Friday evening at Daly's Theatre by Minnie A. Jones of Chicago, subject—Medical Freedom, or Play Fair—seemed to please the audience greatly. Mrs. Jones claimed the old school of medicine of the allopathy school through its organization, the National Medical Association, is not playing fair, that they have built up a powerful "medical trust" to advance the financial and political interests of the old school and are using unfair methods to repress and condemn all other methods of practice or healing. Mrs. Jones asked: "Where does the demand for medical inspection come from? Are parents requesting the health boards to send physicians into their schools to examine their children or their neighbor's children?" Not the demand comes from the medical trust which sends out its orders every year stating what the annual fee shall be. This year it is medical inspection of school children and physical examination of men contemplating marriage. Mrs. Jones said if physicians could agree, when diagnosing a case there would be some sense in it, but doctors so often disagree that a man can secure any decision he wants by changing doctors.

After turning a man over to science for classification, investigation and regulation as a beast or a bug is to destroy the conception of a man, as a spirit, that being having possibilities of development. When the law presumes to analyze a soul measure, his powers and possibilities and regulate his destiny with a tape measure and a microscope, it goes beyond its sphere.

Mrs. Jones said medical freedom is opposed to compulsory laws and compulsion in treatment and that statistics show that more people are struck by lightning than die of small-pox and it is just as absurd to force everybody to be vaccinated as it would be to compel them to have riveted on their backs a lightning rod to be carried thru life.

CRANBERRY RECIPES.
By O. G. Malde.

Cranberry conserve.
Chop coarsely five pounds washed cranberries and two pounds raisins. Add juice of six oranges, and five pounds sugar. Heat and simmer slowly until thick like jam. Put in jelly glasses.

Canned Cranberries.
Always wash cranberries. Pack dry cranberries into pint or quart Mason jars, put on rubbers and cover and seal tight. Place jars in pan, kettle or wash boiler, filled with water to reach up to neck of cans. (Place false bottom in the dishes used.)

After water comes to a boil permit pint cans to boil a half hour, or quart cans three quarters of an hour, then take from water, and remove covers, fill cans with hot syrup and re-seal. Set aside in cool place for two weeks before using.

Syrup is made as ordinary sugar syrup, figuring on one half pint of cranberries.

For thinner sauce or more tart flavor, reduce proportion of sugar slightly.

(San Francisco Co. Washington Post.)

Here are what Presiding Judge Paul J. McCormick has announced as "Thirteen Mistakes of Life."

"To attempt to set up your own standard of right and wrong."

"To try to measure the enjoyment of others by your own."

"To expect uniformity of opinions in this world."

"To fail to make allowance for inexperience."

"To endeavor to mold all dispositions alike."

"Not to yield in unimportant trifles."

"To look for perfection in our own actions."

"To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied."

"Not to help everybody, wherever, however and whenever we can."

"To consider anything impossible that we cannot ourselves perform."

"To believe only what our finite minds can grasp."

"Not to make allowances for the weaknesses of others."

"To estimate by some outside quality, when it is that within which makes the man."

Hats Off to Nekosia.
Nekosia Times:—Workmen have been busy the past week digging holes and erecting poles for the purpose of wiring the village for the Nekosia-Edwards Light and Power Company. This move, we take it, means that Nekosia will have electric lights and electric power, generally, pretty quick now, soon, yes?

Well, our people have waited long enough to be entitled to several systems of electricity. And we truly hope nothing will now turn up to prevent them having it ready for us in a few weeks at farthest.

Thus with our new water works, new electric light and power system, new school house, new bridge, new mile of paved street, the general air of progress and improvement that stirs every nook and corner of the village, we will soon be figuratively speaking, cooking our hat on the side of our head, strutting up and down and putting our thumbs in the armpits of our vest, saying: "Our home is Nekosia; we're handsome and we know it."

Blundered.
Exe—"Cigar, old man?"
Wye—"Thanks" (puff, puff). Capital weed this. Aren't you going to smoke too?"

Exe (examining the remaining one)—"No, I think not."

Wye—"What's the matter? Did you give me the wrong one?"—Boston Transcript.

Shores and the Man.
"My grandfather snored, my father snored, my mother snored, and I snored. He is no son of mine. I have always snored. Edward never saw me in the town of Edward. Arthur, Benhook Monokton, Baron Heberington, have thrown a huge estate into the probate court of England and question the legitimacy of the succeeding heir. The late baron's nephew claims succession to the estates under the will and will also lay claim to the peerage. The man who for years has been accepted as the lawful son of the old lord has entered a caveat, alleging that the will is prima facie proof of his father's insanity. The case is attracting national interest."

LOCAL ITEMS.

—Go to Church Next Sunday.

S. A. Safford, has been seriously ill for several weeks.

Hang Eille, of Marshfield was a business visitor in the city on Thursday.

George Berard has accepted a position in the Seward & Edwards Meat Market.

Miss Buelah Cleveland is visiting at the home of Miss Ethel Waters near Almond.

Gus Schiller, one of the solid farmers near Pittsville, was among the Tribune callers on Thursday.

—When you think of Health—think of Chiropractic. F. T. Hoff, Chiropractor, over Daly's Drug Store, East Side.

Edward W. Panter of this city was recently granted an assistant pharmacist license by the state board of pharmacy.

Mike Hiehl, Sr., of Rudolph was among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office on Saturday, while in the city on business.

Mayor Pelker and Ex-Sheriff, Mike Griffin of Marshfield were in the city on Wednesday in attendance at the Catholic Foresters banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schmitt of Marshfield were in the city on Wednesday to attend the doings of the Catholic Foresters that evening.

H. Laging, one of the prosperous farmers in the town of Grant was a caller at this office on Saturday to renew his subscription for another year.

A. E. Pike of the town of Rome, Adams county, was a business visitor in the city on Saturday. While here he favored the Tribune office with a pleasant call.

Rev. Wm. Nommensen and family returned on Friday evening from Milwaukee where they spent a week visiting with friends and attending to some business matters.

—Bought and Paid For, Saturday.

Herman Knipple of Almond visited with friends in the city last week. Carl Olson and family of Almond are in the city visiting with relatives for a week.

—Anyone who desires the best in the line of pianos would do well to drop a card to Edwin Christopherson, Marshfield, Wis. I have some bargains.

John C. Parks, one of the progressive farmers of the town of Sherry, was a pleasant caller at this office on Thursday while in the city on business.

C. O. Hassell has been under the weather for several weeks past. While able to be about, he is unable to take any violent exercise or walk for any distance without suffering considerable pain and inconvenience.

Editors J. L. Sturdevant of Wausau, A. E. Burr of Marshfield and J. P. Walters of Mosinee were among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office on Thursday of last week. These gentlemen were here to attend the Episcopal meeting held here that evening.

Howard Croteau, who is in the employ of the Nekoosa-Edwards Co. with headquarters at Chicago spent Thursday and Friday in the city on business. He was accompanied on his return Friday evening by his sister Mrs. John Bell, who will be a guest at his home for a week.

Several inches of snow fell in the vicinity on Sunday, January 25th, and since that time all 1125 excepting autos have been traveling on runners. Before this time there was not enough snow for sleighing and it is seldom that snow holds off until such a late date in this part of the country.

T. A. Anderson, manager of the Progressive Creamery Co., was among the Tribune callers on Saturday. Mr. Anderson reports that business has been pretty good at the creamery of late notwithstanding the fact that it is winter and the season when there is not supposed to be much doing in this line.

A. N. Palmer, who is located at Kansas City, where he is engaged in the hardware business, writes the Tribune that he is getting along nicely and wishes to be remembered to his many friends in this city. He reports that last summer was somewhat hot and dry out in that part of the country but that the people there expect that the coming season will be the best that Kansas City has ever seen.

All railroads in the state now have to furnish free individual drinking cups on all trains. A law passed by a previous legislature denied the railroads permission to allow the public drinking cup to be used on trains. The new law goes a step further and compels railroads to furnish cups to all passengers who have paid for a transportation for ten consecutive miles on demand, which shall not have been previously used by another person.

Rev. E. C. Gear, T. H. Hanna, R. A. Cook and E. E. Johnson were over from Stevens Point on Thursday to attend the Episcopal meeting in this city, they making the trip by auto. They had rather bad luck on their return trip, having run out of oil several times and having to stop on the way, the last time one of them walking from near Mehan station to Plover, where a machine was telephoned for. They arrived home about 4:30 o'clock the following morning, and had they not all been good church members it is probable that some one of them would have used language that would not have looked well in print.

D. D. Conway's Airedale dog Sam was shot on Tuesday evening of last week and died a short time after, being found dead near the Zimmerman shoe store on the west side. When the dog was found it was supposed to have been killed by an automobile, but a subsequent examination of the carcass revealed the fact that the animal had been shot in the back near the fore shoulder with a load of fine shot, apparently from a .44 caliber gun or revolver. It is supposed that the dog was shot from a rig or auto, as the direction of the charge indicated that he had been shot from above. As the dog was a valuable one and greatly prized by Mr. Conway, it is needless to state that it will go hard with the perpetrator of the deed if he is discovered.

—Go to Church Next Sunday.

Mrs. R. E. McFarland is visiting with relatives and friends in Pittsville.

Q. J. Kandy left on Monday for Chicago to spend a few days on a business trip.

Messrs. Anton Brest and W. H. Bowden of Babcock were business visitors in the city Saturday.

Oswald Menzel was in Chicago several days last week looking after some business matters.

Louis Johnson, one of Vesper's enterprising business men was a business visitor in the city on Saturday.

Fred Vollmar of Marshfield was a visitor in the city on Monday, being down here on some insurance business.

John W. Schmitt, one of the pioneer farmers of the town of Rudolph was a pleasant caller at this office on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klevene of Merrill spent several days in the city the past week guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rick.

Mrs. H. F. Corbitt of Roberts, Montana, arrived in the city last week to spend a few days visiting with relatives and friends.

According to the Almond Press, eighteen carloads or 11,400 bushels of potatoes were shipped from that city one day last week.

Drs. C. F. Bandelin, E. J. Clark and C. T. Foote were in Milwaukee several days last week attending the dental convention.

Messrs. Hugh Goggins, Chas. Nash, Harold Arpin and Roy Lester, spent Sunday at the Arpin marsh rabbit hunting. They bagged 24 cotton tails.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Eberhardt departed on Monday for Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. Eberhardt will submit to an operation for appendicitis at the Mayo Bros. hospital.

—Your health is no better than the condition of your spine permits it to be. Your spine tells the story. Try us and see. If we are right take advantage. See F. T. Hoff, Chiropractor, office over Daly's Drug Store.

Messrs. Otto Roenius and C. W. Rood were in Oshkosh last week to attend the dedication of the new Elks' home. They report that the Elks have built a magnificent home and that they enjoyed their visit immensely.

Huntington & Lessig, agents for the Ford autos, have established a branch agency at Vesper. They will also establish one at Pittsville and expect to sell several carloads of cars in each place the coming season.

—Bought and Paid For, Saturday.

A. C. Koch, who is assistant cashier in the bank at Laona, S. D., was in the city on Saturday and paid the Tribune a pleasant call. Mr. Koch was called to this part of the country by the death of his grandmother, Mrs. Alvin Boelke. Mr. Koch returned home on Monday.

P. F. Bent, one of the old residents of the town of Hansen, and former county treasurer, was among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office on Thursday. Mr. Bent, while nearing the 70th milestone, is apparently as vigorous as many a man twenty years younger, and it is always a pleasure to meet him.

John Mess of the town of Marathon last week cut down a large pine tree on his land. Mr. Mess had still a few of the old original forest giants standing on his land until last week when he cut them down. One of these trees was over a hundred feet high and could be seen for miles around. This tree scaled 2,560 feet—Marathon Times.

Otto Scharman of the firm of Klinger, Lang and Scharman of Marshfield was in the city on Thursday interviewing some of our people on the subject of Reo automobiles. Mr. Scharman reports that he has already made a number of sales for spring delivery and says that the indications are splendid for a good business the coming season.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Roenius and son and daughter departed on Saturday for Watertown where they will spend Sunday with relatives. From there Mr. Roenius went to Chicago to spend Monday on business and Tuesday evening he attended a big Elks blow-out in Milwaukee, going from there to Madison to attend the bowling tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Zeaman of Sigel had some friends and relatives at their home on Sunday to celebrate Mr. Zeaman's 37th birthday. The present were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Hopperman and family, Mrs. Gust Bauch, Frank Zeaman and family, Mrs. E. T. Bette, and two daughters, Mrs. Alfred Canning, Mr. Andrew Lund, Miss Mabel Zeaman, Walter and Carl Zeaman.

John D. Kissinger who is a son of Jacob Kissinger of the town of Sigel, was at one time made his home in this city, has been elected president of the new bank recently erected at Laona. The company has just completed a new bank building of brick, 25x40 feet and two stories high. Mr. Kissinger's friends in this vicinity will be pleased to hear of his success in his present location.

Messrs. J. P. Pierenboom and G. D. Fritzinger were visitors at the Wood County Asylum at Marshfield on Thursday. They were shown thru the institution by Superintendent Gilson and had a personal talk with the lady who was supposed to have been mistreated. She informed them that it was a fake and that she received the best of treatment. They enjoyed their visit very much and report the asylum a magnificent building.

Fred Pagel of Rudolph was among the callers at the Tribune office on Friday. Mr. Pagel wanted us to state that he was not the man that was put under bonds to keep the peace, it being another man by the same name. Mr. Pagel says that some of his neighbors have been shying off when they met him of late, thinking that possibly he might still be carrying one of those antiquated guns mentioned in a former article, but as he is not the man there is no need of any timidity when in his company. The trouble comes about by there being two men by the same name. The correction is cheerfully made.

HEALTH BEFORE EVERYTHING.

—Dropping hot oil in the outer ear to drop ear aches is a most effective procedure. Hot water is equally effective. Slight ear aches are frequently entirely relieved by a hot mustard foot bath. If pain persists after so simple a remedy, home treatment isn't safe treatment. Persistent pain is a sign of serious disorder to call for the service of a competent physician. When pus accumulates behind the ear drum, the drum should be punctured. It's much safer and less painful than to wait for the drum to break under pressure. The bulging or other signs of inflammation are not to be recognized by inexperienced individuals.

Even sterilized oil in the ear is not clean. Nothing should be introduced into the outer ear which might complicate the internal inflammation should the drum break spontaneously, or should it be necessary to open it. Practically all effective treatment of the ear is indirect. Direct treatment is applied to nose and throat.

A very large proportion of permanent deafness is due to improper treatment of ear diseases. Infections of the ear are mainly extensions of common "colds" in the head. Colds are prevalent now. If they are complicated by ear aches, good treatment by a good physician is a good investment.

A most important and serious complication of infections of the upper respiratory tract is the infection of the ear. The area behind the ear is sensitive to gentle pressure. Pain or sensitivity to touch should be considered as most important as a danger signal. In mastoid disease it is the practice of the best physicians to advise the opening and scraping away of diseased bone. Otherwise, there is grave danger that the disease may proceed to the covering of the brain, with a possible fatal termination.

Deafness constitutes one of the most important causes of needless suffering and disability. More than most of our problems, correction lies with individual intelligence. In the case of contagious disease, for example, individual intelligence only counteracts, in part, the effects of general ignorance.

In this, and some other problems, knowledge of facts in itself constitutes the only safeguard necessary for the individual to protect himself and the children for whom he is responsible.

Well, our people have waited long enough to be entitled to several systems of electricity. And we truly hope nothing will now turn up to prevent them having it ready for us in a few weeks at farthest.
Thus with our new water works, new electric light and power system, new school house, new bridge, new mile of paved street, the general air of progress and improvement that stirs every nook and corner of the village, we will soon be, figuratively speaking, cocking our hat on the side of our head, splitting through our municipal teeth, strutting up and down and putting our thumbs in the armpits of our vest, saying: "Our home is Nekoosa; we're handsome and we know it."

It takes just that amount to buy one of the best little forty acre farms in the town of Rudolph, located five miles from city on main county road. 1 mile to cheese factory and two miles to creamery and Rudolph station. Good house, barn, granary and chicken-coop and woodshed. Soil, good clay loam, 25 acres cleared and part under cultivation. 15 acres woods. Enough timber to last a man a life time. Within three years the state macadam road will run by the door, which alone will be worth many dollars to the value of the farm. Some farm machinery goes with the place. There is not another chance like it in Wood county today to secure as good a farm, location and buildings considered for the money. Owner selling owing to old age. A dandy one-man farm where you can make a good living and be independent. The same amount of money want buy only a fair house and lot in the city. Here you get a home, good barn, fire wood for life-time, and enough of the best clay land to make an independent living.
No trades considered.
Don't wait, see owner at once.

S. A. Safford, has been seriously ill for several weeks.

—Hans Bille, of Marshallfield, was a business visitor in the city on Thursday.

George Berard has accepted a position in the Seward & Edwards Meat Market.

Miss Buelah Cleveland is visiting at the home of Miss Ethel Waters near Almond.

Cus Schiller, one of the solid farmers near Pittsville, was among the Tribune callers on Thursday.

—When you think of Health—think of Chiropractic. F. T. Hoff, Chiropractor, over Daly's Drug Store, East Side.

Edward W. Panter of this city was recently granted an assistant pharmacist license by the state board of pharmacy.

Mike Hietl, Sr., of Rudolph was among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office on Saturday, while in the city on business.

Mayor Felker and Ex-Sheriff, Mike Griffin of Marshallfield were in the city on Wednesday in attendance at the Catholic Foresters banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schmitt of Marshallfield were in the city on Wednesday to attend the doings of the Catholic Foresters that evening.

H. Laging, one of the prosperous farmers in the town of Grant was a caller at this office on Saturday to renew his subscription for another year.

A. E. Pike of the town of Rome, Adams county, was a business visitor in the city on Saturday. While here he favored the Tribune office with a pleasant call.

Rev. Wm. Nordmensen and family returned on Friday evening from Milwaukee where they spent a week visiting with friends and attending to some business matters.

—Bought and Paid For, Saturday.
Herman Knipple of Almond visited with friends in the city the past week.

Carl Olson and family of Almond are in the city visiting with relatives for a week.

—Anyone who desires the best in the line of pianos would do well to drop a card to Edwin Christopherson, Marshallfield, Wis. I have some bargains.

John C. Parks, one of the progressive farmers of the town of Sherry, was a pleasant caller at this office on Thursday while in the city on business.

C. O. Hassell has been under the weather for several weeks past. While able to be about, he is unable to take any violent exercise or walk for any distance without suffering considerable pain and inconvenience.

Editors J. L. Sturdevant of Wausau, A. E. Barr of Marshallfield and B. E. Walters of Mosinee were among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office on Thursday of last week. These gentlemen were here to attend the Episcopal meeting held here that evening.

Howard Grotteau, who is in the employ of the Nekosia-Edwards Co. with headquarters at Chicago spent Thursday and Friday in the city on business. He was accompanied on his return Friday evening by his sister, Mrs. John Bell, who will be a guest at his home for a week.

Several inches of snow fell in the vicinity of Sunday, January 25th, and since that time all rigs excepting autos have been traveling on runners. Before this time there was not enough snow for sleighing and it is seldom that snow holds off until such a late date in this part of the country.

T. A. Anderson, manager of the Progressive Creamery Co., was among the Tribune callers on Saturday. Mr. Anderson reports that business has been pretty good at the creamery of late notwithstanding the fact that it is winter and the season when there is not supposed to be much doing in this line.

A. N. Palmer, who is located at Kansas City, where he is engaged in the hardware business, writes the Tribune that he is getting along nicely and wishes to be remembered to his many friends in this city. He reports that last summer was somewhat hot and dry out in that part of the country but that the people there expect that the coming season will be the best that Kansas City has ever seen.

All railroads in the state now have to furnish free individual drinking cups on all trains. A law passed by a previous legislature denied the railroads permission to allow the public drinking cup to be used on trains. The new law goes a step further and compels railroads to furnish cups to all passengers who have paid for a transportation to ten consecutive miles on demand, which shall not have been previously used by another person.

Rev. E. C. Gear, T. H. Hanna, R. A. Cook and E. E. Johnson were over from Sherry on Thursday to attend the Episcopal meeting in this city. They had rather bad luck on their return trip, having run out of oil several times and having to stop on the way, the last time one of them walking from near Meekins station to Plover, where a machine was telephoned for. They arrived home about 4:30 o'clock the following morning, and had they not all been good church members it is probable that some one of them would have used language that would not have looked well in print.

D. D. Conway's Airdale dog Sam was shot on Tuesday evening of last week and died a short time after, being found dead near the Zimmerman shoe store on the west side. When the dog was found it was supposed to have been killed by an automobile, but a subsequent examination of the carcass revealed the fact that the animal had been shot in the back near the fore shoulder with a load of fine shot, apparently from a 44 caliber gun or revolver. It is supposed that the dog was shot from a rig or auto, as the direction of the charge indicated that he had been shot from above. As the dog was a valuable one and greatly prized by Mr. Conway, it is needless to state that it will go hard with the perpetrator of the deed if he is discovered.

—Go to Church Next Sunday.

Mrs. R. E. McFarland is visiting with relatives and friends in the field.

G. J. Kandy left on Monday for Chicago to spend a few days on a business trip.

—Messrs. Anton Brest and W. H. Bowden of Babcock were business visitors in the city Saturday.

Oswald Menzel, was in Chicago several days last week looking after some business matters.

Louis Johnson, one of Vesper's enterprising business men, was a business visitor in the city on Saturday.

Fred Vollmar of Marshallfield was a visitor in the city on Monday, being down here on some insurance business.

John W. Schmitt, one of the pioneer farmers of the town of Rudolph, was a pleasant caller at this office on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klevene of Merrill spent several days in the city the past week guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rick.

Mrs. H. P. Corbitt of Roberts, Montana, arrived in the city last week to spend a few days visiting with relatives and friends.

According to the Almond, Pringle, eighteen carloads or 11,400 bushels of potatoes were shipped from that city the day last week.

Drs. C. F. Bandelin, E. J. Clark and C. T. Foote were in Milwaukee several days last week attending the dental convention.

Messrs. Hugh Goggins, Chas. Nash, Harold Arpin and Roy Lester, spent Sunday at the Arpin marsh rabbit hunting. They bagged 24 cotton tails.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Eberhardt departed on Monday for Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. Eberhardt will submit to an operation for appendicitis at the Mayo Bros. hospital.

—Your health is no better than the condition of your spine permits it to be. Your spine tells the story. Try us and see. If we are right take adjustments. See F. T. Hoff, Chiropractor, office over Daly's Drug Store.

Messrs. Otto Roenius and C. W. Rood were in Oshkosh last week to attend the dedication of the new Elks' home. They report that the Elks have built a magnificent home and that they enjoyed their visit immensely.

Huntington & Lessig, agents for the Ford autos, have established a branch agency at Vesper. They will also establish one at Pittsville and expect to sell several carloads of cars in each place the coming season.

—Bought and Paid For, Saturday.
A. C. Koch, who is assistant cashier in the bank at Lebanon, S. D., was in the city on Saturday and paid the Tribune a pleasant call. Mr. Koch was called to this part of the country by the death of his grandmother, Mrs. Alvin Boske. Mr. Koch returned home on Monday.

P. F. Bean, one of the old residents of the town of Hansen, and former county treasurer, was among the pleasant callers at the Tribune office on Thursday. Mr. Bean, while near the 70th milestone, is apparently as vigorous as many a man twenty years younger, and it is always a pleasure to meet him.

John Mess of the town of Marathon last week cut down a large pine tree on his land. Mr. Mess had still a few of the old original forest giants standing on his land until last week when he cut them down. One of these trees was over a hundred feet high and could be seen for miles around. This tree scaled 2,560 feet.—Marathon Times.

Otto Scherman of the firm of Klinger, Lang and Scherman of Marshallfield was in the city on Thursday inspecting some of our people on the subject of Reo automobiles. Mr. Scherman reports that he has already made a number of sales for spring delivery and says that the indications are splendid for a good business the coming season.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Roenius and son and daughter departed on Saturday for Watertown where they will spend Sunday with relatives. From there Mr. Roenius went to Chicago to spend Monday on business and Tuesday evening he attended a big Elks blow-out in Milwaukee, going from there to Madison to attend the bowling tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Zeaman of Sigel had some friends and relatives at their home on Sunday to celebrate Mr. Zeaman's 37th birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Matson, Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. Hoppman and family, Mrs. Gust Bauch, Frank Zeaman and family, Mrs. E. T. Bodette, and two daughters, Mrs. Alfred Canning, Mr. Andrew Lund, Miss Mabel Zeaman, Walter and Carl Zeaman.

John D. Kissinger who is a son of Jacob Kissinger of the town of Sigel, and who at one time made his home in this city, has been elected president of the new bank recently erected at Laona. The company has just completed a new bank building of brick, 25x40 feet and two stories high. Mr. Kissinger's friends in this vicinity will be pleased to hear of his success in his present location.

Messrs. A. P. Peersboom and G. D. Fritzinger were visitors at the Wood County Asylum at Marshallfield on Thursday. They were shown through the institution by Superintendent Gillson and had a personal talk with the lady who was supposed to have been mistreated. She informed them that it was a fake and that she received the best of treatment. They enjoyed their visit very much and report the asylum a magnificent building.

Fred Pagel of Rudolph was among the callers at the Tribune office on Friday. Mr. Pagel wanted us to state that he was not the man that was put under bonds to keep the peace, it being another man by the same name. Mr. Pagel says that some of his neighbors have been shying off when they met him of late, thinking that possibly he might be carrying one of those antiquated guns mentioned in a former article, but as he is not the man there is no need of any anxiety when in his company. This trouble comes about by there being two men by the same name. The correction is cheerfully made.

HEALTH
EARACHE
Dropping hot oil in the outer ear to stop ear ache is not a safe procedure. Hot water is equally efficacious. Slight earache is frequently entirely relieved by a hot mustard bath. If pain persists after so simple a remedy, home treatment isn't safe treatment. Persistent pain is a sign of serious disorder to call for the service of a competent physician. When pain accumulates behind the eardrum, the drum should be punctured. It's much safer and less painful than to wait for the drum to break under pressure. The bulging or other signs of inflammation are not to be recognized by inexperienced individuals.

Even sterilized oil in the ear is not clearly. Nothing should be introduced into the ear which may complicate the internal inflammation should the drum break spontaneously, or should it be opened to open it. Practically all effective treatment of the ear is indirect. Direct treatment is applied to nose and throat.

A very large proportion of permanent deafness is due to improper treatment of ear diseases. Infections of the ear are mainly extensions of common "colds" in the head. Colds are prevalent now. If they are complicated by ear ache, good treatment by a good physician is a good investment.

A most important and serious complication of infections of the ear is the spongy bone behind the ear becomes infected. The area behind the ear is small, but it is just as absurd to force everybody to be vaccinated as it would be to compel them to have riveted on their backs a lightning rod to be carried thru life.

CRANBERRY RECIPES.

By O. C. Malde.
Cranberry Preserve.
Chop coarsely five pounds washed cranberries and two pounds raisins. Add juice of six oranges, and five pounds sugar. Heat and simmer slowly until thick like jam. Put in jelly glasses.

Canned Cranberries.
Always wash cranberries. Pack dry cranberries into pint or quart Mason jars, put on rubbers and cover and seal tight. Place jars in a kettle or wash boiler, filled with water to reach up to neck of cans. (Place false bottom in the dishes used.)

After water comes to a boil permit pint cans to boil a half hour, or quart cans three quarters of an hour, then take from water, and remove covers, fill cans with hot syrup and re-seal. Set aside in cool place for two weeks before using.
Syrup is made as ordinary sugar syrup, figuring on one half pint of cranberries.
For thinner sauce or more tart flavor, reduce proportion of sugar slightly.

13 Mistakes in Life.

"To attempt to set up your own standard of right and wrong."
"To try to measure the enjoyment of others by your own."
"To expect uniformity of opinions in this world."
"To fail to make allowance for inexperience."
"To endeavor to mold all dispositions alike."
"Not to yield in unimportant trifles."
"To look for perfection in our own actions."
"To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied."
"Not to help everybody, wherever, however and whenever we can."
"To believe only what our finite minds can grasp."
"Not to make allowances for the weaknesses of others."
"To estimate by some outside quality, when it is that within which makes the man."

Well, our people have waited long enough to be entitled to several systems of electricity. And we truly hope nothing will now turn up to prevent them having it ready for us in a few weeks at the latest.

This with our new water works, new electric light and power system, new school house, new bridge, new mile of paved street, the general air of progress and improvement that stirs every nook and corner of the village, we will soon be, figuratively speaking, cocking our hat on the side of our head, spitting through our nostrils, teeth, strutting up and down and putting our thumbs in the armpits of our vest, saying: "Our name is Nekosia; we're handsome and we know it."

Lecture on Medical Freedom.

The lecture Friday evening at Daly's Theatre by Minona S. Jones of Chicago, subject—Medical Freedom, or Play Fair—seemed to please the audience greatly. Mrs. Jones claimed the old school of medicine of the allopathy school through its organization, the American Medical Association is not playing fair, that they have built up a powerful "medical trust" to advance the financial and political interests of the "old school" and are using unfair methods to repress and condemn all other methods of practice or healing. Mrs. Jones asked: "Where does the demand for medical inspection come from? Are parents requesting the health boards, and sending physicians into their schools to examine their children or their neighbor's children?" No! the demand comes from the medical trust which sends out its orders every year stating that the annual fee shall be this year it is medical inspection of school children, and physical examination of men contemplating marriage. Mrs. Jones said if physicians could agree when playing fair, that there would be some sense in it, but doctors so often disagree that a man can secure any decision he wants by changing doctors.

To turn a man over to science for classification, investigation and regulation as a beast or a bug is to destroy the conception of a man, as a spiritual being having possibilities of development. When the law proposes to analyze a soul measure, its powers and possibilities and regulate his destiny with a tape measure and a microscope, it goes beyond its sphere.

Mrs. Jones said medical freedom is opposed to compulsory laws and compulsion in treatment and that statistics show that more people are killed by lightning than die of small pox and it is just as absurd to force everybody to be vaccinated as it would be to compel them to have riveted on their backs a lightning rod to be carried thru life.

It takes just that amount to buy one of the best little forty acre farms in the town of Rudolph, located five miles from city on main county road. 1 mile to cheese factory and two miles to creamery and Rudolph station. Good house, barn, granary and chicken-coop and woodshed. Soil, good clay loam, 25 acres cleared and part under cultivation. 15 acres woods. Enough timber to last a man a life time. Within three years the state macadam road will run by the door, which alone will be worth many dollars to the value of the farm. Some farm machinery goes with the place. There is not another chance like it in Wood county today to secure as good a farm, location and buildings considered for the money. Owner selling owing to old age. A dandy one-man farm where you can make a good living and be independent. The same amount of money would buy only a fair house and lot in the city. Here you get a home, good barn, fire wood for life-time, and enough of the best clay land to make an Independent living.

No trades considered.
Don't wait, see owner at once.

The grasshopper took out a membership card in the "Easy Spenders" lodge and had a fine time all summer, but when the wintry winds and storms came on there was nothing to eat but snow.

It's a fine thing to drift along joyously with no thought of the morrow—while you are young and everything looks rosy. BUT THE WISE ONES KNOW THAT THERE IS THE TIME TO SET ASIDE A LITTLE by systematic saving, as a reserve for old age. Don't be like the grasshopper.

Getting Down to Business

Kind of a "mollycoddle" sort of a chap, this fellow, don't you think? The old woman sure has him buffaloed. He's the kind of a "gink" who, if he went to buy a bill of lumber, could be made to take any old stuff and pay the top price for it. He's not the kind of a man we like to do business with. We want a man to know what he wants and who knows when he gets it.

You can't be too particular when you come here to buy. We've got the best lumber and we want the best people to buy it. We want your trade.

The Lighthouse of the North

An Audacious Hazard of Nikolai, Independent Agent, as Related by His Lieutenant, Summers
By H. M. EGBERT

(Copyright, 1913, by W. G. Chapman.)

Our little yacht cut gallily through the great waves that rolled in an unceasing surge off the great North cape of Norway. It was the end of September; the nights and days were equal, but a blue line on the horizon betokened the approach of the Arctic ice-pack that would soon descend to seal that silent coast until the following spring. Nothing could exceed the loneliness and desolation of the seascape;
not a sail or line of smoke was visible.
Far on our starboard lay the Norwegian coast.

Then we read out the orders.
"Satcha Alexandrovitch, with five other revolutionary patriots, is on his way to Archangel aboard the Potemkin."

Our mission was to rescue them.
For these men had been the hope of Russia and of freedom through many stormy months; at last, treacherously betrayed to the minions of the czar, they had been sentenced, after a mock trial, to perpetual banishment in the frozen wastes of northern Russia.

Where no man ever had long enough to communicate with his friends again. It was a sentence of death in the penal settlement there.

And on the following day the cruiser Potemkin would round the great cape on her journey into the White sea, the last before the closing in of the ice, leaving her victims.

Afterward, Nikolai communicated to me his plans, as we sat side by side within the cabin, studying the charts.

"Here we shall intercept her," he said, pointing to a dot off the coast.
"And all her guns and complement of soldiers and sailors will never save her."

He unfolded his scheme. "Here is the lighthouse," he said. "Its light, burning steadily, alone makes possible a voyage between those rocks and shoals. We shall destroy the light; the ship, misled, will be buffeted upon the rocks. The prisoners have power to open the door, where they will escape. Perhaps they will perish; but the chance is better than the certain death which awaits them."

It was a desperate undertaking, the little yacht against the armored battleship, but none of us thought of that. Our hearts were elated with the magnitude of our task. That night, running in close along the rocky shore,
we sighted the lighthouse.

It was of the old-fashioned type.
The lenses did not revolve, but a steady stream of light issued through them on three sides, shooting out like a warning finger far into the darkness.

"We shall shoot out the glasses," I said to Nikolai. "Perchance, if we shoot out the central lens, no light visible from a distance will issue.
The Potemkin will sail to her destruction."

Nikolai smiled rather sadly.
"We cannot approach that coast within two thousand yards," he answered. "And, at that distance, no rifle bullet would penetrate those thick lenses. Moreover, at such a distance, who could hit a beam of light by night?"

"What then?" I asked.
"We must take it by storm," he answered. "It is guarded by three soldiers—veterans of the Imperial Guard.
Russia leaves little to chance. It must be captured."

That night the lighthouse was to be rushed. There was no other way.
At dark we took our way in toward the shore cautiously by means of the lead; we anchored at a distance of a mile and a little more, and leaving two men aboard the boat, five of us remaining rowed cautiously through the rocks.

More than once our little boat upset, leaving us clinging to the sharp, needle-pointed crags. But each time we recovered ourselves, by some fortuitous means. At length, dripping frozen and utterly exhausted, we reached the rocks on which the great lighthouse stood.

We had brought cutlasses and revolvers. At a word from Nikolai we crept cautiously across our slippery foothold until we reached the iron balcony at the base of the tower.
Faintly within we heard two watchmen snoring a peasant-song.

"Now, men," said Nikolai, "it will be useless to knock Nikolai will open to the sea, for they know that no person could come here with anything but evil intent." He picked up a huge stone, and, with a shout, hurled it at the door.

"Follow me!" he cried, and hurried himself with his burden against the door.

That was the mightiest blow that ever I saw struck. It shattered the iron bolts from bottom to top.
The door flew open, and a moment later and we had cleared away this obstruction, just as two bearded giants stepped along the flags within and confronted us.

"Yield!" cried Nikolai in Russian, covering them with his revolver.
They threw up their hands, with alacrity. "Where is your companion?"
Nikolai asked.

"In the light-chamber," they answered sulkily.

We dashed pell-mell up the stone stairs. We came upon him as he descended, a twinkling he was discussing the Potemkin was ours. It was the work of a few moments to pour out the oil and break the lenses.

"We should have kept those fellows prisoners," said Nikolai. "Still, they can do no harm. They will not dare attack us, and there is nowhere for them to go. Now, men, back to the boat."

We hurried down. As we ran we heard shouts, beneath us, defiant, mocking, they seemed. When we reached the ruins of the door below
the cries came from the darkness, mingled with the pounding of the sea.
Nikolai exclaimed aloud and ran on alone across the slippery rocks. I heard him stumble and fall. Then curse came to us from without, and a hail of bullets whizzed past our ears. At the same instant we heard our comrades grating against the rocks.

Then we understood. We had not thought to guard our boat. The watchmen had taken it, and, knowing every inch of the coast, would doubtless run it away.

Another hail of bullets made us dodge. Nikolai came jumping back to me, his face convulsed with fury.
"We're trapped like rats," he said between his teeth. Then a thought struck him.

"They must have a boat of their own," he called. "Follow me!" He dashed across the rocks again, the rear of us after him. When we reached the other side we found the remains of a painter. The lighthouse keepers had taken their own boat as well as the others, and there, a succession of five shots came from the darkness on this side also. We covered back into the darkness.

"One man in that boat," said Nikolai. "Those shots are from his magazine. And two in the other.
Now—are you ready to die?"

We were soon undressed. As by a signal, a volley came from either side.
Two of our men cried, stumbled, and slid across the slippery weed, splashed into the sea.

"Into the light-house, men," cried Nikolai; and we reached cover just as another volley flattered itself against the massive walls.

We looked around us. In a tiny chamber was a heavy table, bolted into the stone. Nikolai set his shoulder against it and wrenched it bodily from its fastenings. Then he beat down the door, and the narrow passageway, out out of the living rock, apparently, and opening into an extensive chamber, evidently the work of engineers. At the entrance we discovered ample provisions in the shape of food and salted meat, as well as dried fruits and a great tank of water, connecting with what must have been a rain reservoir on the top of the lighthouse. As we approached the chamber in the rock a low moan reached my ears.

"There are men in there!" I cried to Nikolai.

"Who are you?" he called.
Only a muffled answer. An oil lamp was burning in a niche of the damp wall. Nikolai snatched it up and, despite my warnings, advanced toward the dark recesses of the prison. I followed. In the far nook we saw a sight that called forth a cry of pity from my companion.

Stretched out upon a bed of filthy straw, his hands chained to steel staples in the wall, was an old man, emaciated, and apparently upon the verge of death. Beside him knelt a woman, of mature years, but bearing the marks of greivous torture, and being, all Russians and from the same territory. In the end it was recognized that a true must be effected until the fortune of war should decide for one side or the other.

"Pools that we were," said Nikolai to me. "Had we known what we know now we should have let the Potemkin land her new captives here, concealing our yacht in the offing, and when she had departed, we should have taken them with us and sailed away. Now, all is lost. The vessel will pound to pieces on the rocks and our captives will die with the crew.
Or if they land, we shall encounter the attack of a hundred desperate men. At all costs the Potemkin must be saved."

"We can save her yet," I answered.
"One lens is still unbroken. It is riches from the frame but not shattered. With this we can bring the vessel in safely."

"How?" asked Nikolai.
"I took him up into the light chamber. As I had said, one of the three great lenses had remained unshattered.
I explained my plan. As Nikolai looked it in became greatly excited.
He clapped me upon the shoulder and strode up and down the room, vowing that the bridge should yet be restored to her husband, from whose arms she had been snatched a short week after the wedding, twelve years before.

"We have the scheme. The single lens, set into the central frame, would convey the light straight out to sea and afford a signal for the cruiser.
The Potemkin would anchor in the offing, place the prisoners in a boat under a guard, and row them ashore.
We should admit them, capture and disarm the guard, and hold them in the vaults. The next party that came would meet a similar fate; and so all who arrived, for even if they suspected any danger, we could defend the light-house against a regiment, plantations, nitrate grounds, oil fields, land, financial, telegraph, cable, shipping and insurance companies, branches of banks and mercantile companies, mortgages on property, loans and deposits abroad and profits of all kinds arising from business done abroad by manufacturers, merchants and commission agents.

According to the same statistics, there are 214 persons in the United Kingdom with an income of $275,000, which means that there are that many persons possessing a capital of about $6,000,000 each. But these are not the richest Englishmen. There are 66 with an income of $500,000 and over, 55 with an income of from $275,000 to $500,000, 37 with incomes of $225,000 to $275,000, and 56 with incomes of from $275,000 to $325,000. Furthermore, there are 4,143 persons with incomes of $50,000, and over, which means the possession of a capital of $1,000,000 and more. Consequently the total of persons in the country who possess at least $1,000,000 does not fall short of 4,751.

drovitch. We must and will restore him and his bride to liberty. And think—for twelve years they have not met."

On guard," cried our companion.
We heard steps on the rocks; we drew our revolvers and waited. But what was our astonishment when through the darkness, we saw our two companions of the yacht and the three Russian soldiers conversing amicably together as they approached us. A short interrogation convinced Nikolai that the truth was a genuine one.
We hurried down and, by the aid of a file which the soldiers gave us, had soon freed the prisoners from their bondage. Then, seated together over a meal, explanations were offered and received.

It appeared that the light-house was used as a secret penal station to which prisoners were sent who had been sentenced to the mines of Archangel.
The secret had been well kept, and this explained why none of those sent to the frozen north had ever been heard from. They were not there;
the cruisers put them invariably upon this desolate rock, where they remained in chains until death claimed them. The soldiers naturally thought that we had discovered the location of their captives; this explained their desperate efforts to regain the light-house. They had abandoned the attempt, knowing of the death of two of our men, and had resolved to make by boat for the open sea.

We put our three friendly enemies down in the vaults, first exchanging clothes with them. They went readily enough, when we had explained to them that their imprisonment was only temporary, until after the vessel's departure. Then three of us, dressed in the Russian uniform, with the two other men in the rear of us, waited for the arrival of the boat.

It seemed an endless interval—it was really about an hour before the ship's boat grated against the rocks.
She carried the six prisoners, chained with six armed guards. Nikolai welcomed the sailors in their native tongue. They advanced, entirely unsuspecting. Then, in a trice, we had them in the vaults and led ried a week to me, was snatched from my arms and carried off to a dungeon by the soldiers of Russia's tyrant. I never saw her face from that day to this. After a mockery of a trial she was found guilty of conspiring against the czar and sentenced to Archangel.

"I could have given myself up and received the same sentence. I could have been banished thither and have joined her there. And I refused. Do you know why? I voluntarily cut myself off from sharing her exile! For Russia's sake. For Russia's sake, and because, while free, I could still fight for liberty. I hid from the soldiers; I worked in Russia for the cause.
Every day I have hoped for capture;
and every day I have worked it—like a mole in the dark to avoid it—for Russia's sake."

"And when at last the czar laid hold of me and I was sentenced to Archangel, all my heart leaped up.
I knew she was not dead. Had she died I should have felt and known it.
I always knew that somewhere my wife lived, waiting for the day of reunion. And all through the voyage on the Potemkin, I was happier than I have ever been before, because I was going to her and should see her again!"

"And you, you fool, have ruined this! You have given me back my accused liberty, and once again I must return to Russia to fight for freedom."

Nikolai had signaled to me in the midst of this tirade and I had understood. I went into the vault and led

Chiding to Child, That Seemed Un-

Deed of Heroism.

Dr. Keate, the terrible head master of Eton, encountered one winter morning a small boy crying miserably, and asked him what was the matter. The child replied that he was cold. "Cold!" roared Keate. "You must put up with cold, sir! I am not at a girl's school!"

It is a horrid anecdote, and I am kind-hearted enough to think that Dr.
Keate, who was a very severe master, had taken the lad to some generous fire (presumably such a thing was to be found) and had warmed his frozen hands and feet. But it so chanced that in that little sniveling boy there lurked a spark of pride and a spark of spirit, and both flared at the very touch of the master. He probably stopped crying, and he certainly remembered the sharp appeal to manhood; for fifteen years later, with the Third dragoons, he charged at the strongly intrenched men of (30,000) of the Boer fighting men of the Transvaal, and in the end he was the Sullied. And as the word was given he returned to his superior officer, a fellow Stouan who was scanning the stout walls and the beaming guns.
"As old Keate would say, this is no girl's school," he chuckled, and rode to his death on the battle of Sobrazul, which gave Lahore to England—Agnes Repplier, in the Atlantic.

Where Twins Are a Disgrace.
A special study of the women of the Ibibos and other southern Nigerian tribes has been made by Mrs. P.
Amara Talbot, who, with her husband and sister, has just completed a month's journey in West Africa.

Though many of the invocations of the people are addressed to the powers of fertility and a large family is considered a disgrace. One of the twins is regarded as a devil child, outside the sphere of British influence. The other twin is generally killed at birth. The husband forsakes the wife and she must spend at least a year in purifying rites. If he please the husband may then rejoin her.

Called Home.
A noted clergyman, whose pastorate is in a well-known city, was spending a few days at the summer home of one of his congregation.

While seated on the piazza one afternoon with his hostess, her little boy and girl came running toward them;
the former with a rat held at arm's length by the tail.

"Don't be afraid, mother," he called.
"It is quite dead! We beat him and beat him!" each declaration being illustrated by an imaginary blow on the rat. Then, feeling a deference might be due the clergyman, he said, in measured, solemn tones and with uplifted eyes:

"Yes, we beat him and beat him until—God—called—him—home!"—Harper's Magazine.

The Prospector—But isn't it painful?

Overheard.
"Katherine has such a taking way."
"I wish she had a way of bringing back."

Wondered Why.
Found the Answer Was "Coffee."

Many pale, sickly persons wonder frequently why they have to suffer so, and eventually discover that the drug —caffeine—in coffee is the main cause of the trouble.

"I was always very fond of coffee and drank it every day. I never had much flesh and often wondered why I was always so pale, thin and weak."
About five years ago my health completely broke down and I was convinced to my bed. My stomach was in such condition that I could hardly take sufficient nourishment to sustain life.

"During this time I was drinking coffee, didn't think I could do without it."

"After awhile I came to the conclusion that coffee was hurting me, and decided to give it up and try Postum.
When it was made right—dark and rich—I soon became very fond of it."

"In one week I began to feel better.
I could eat more and sleep better. My sick headache was gone, and I was able to do more. I looked and felt like a new being, headache spells entirely gone."

"My health continued to improve and today I am well and strong, weigh 148 lbs. I attribute my present health to the life-giving qualities of Postum."
Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Well-being" in Pinks.

Postum now comes in two forms:
Regular Postum—must be well boiled.
Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cereals and sugar, makes a most delicious beverage instantly. Grocers sell both kinds.
There's a Reason for Postum.

"I have fallen down a long flight of stairs and sustained damages that will disable me for months to come," replied he, "and I think that one hundred dollars damages should be awarded me."

"Hm!" said the manager as he toyed with his gold chain. "I have had your case investigated prior to your visit here, and, young man, I have every reason to believe that you was no accident. You knew the young lad's father was at home all the time."

His arm was in a sling, he was limp-ing badly, his nose was out of shape, one of his eyes had been blackened and he was proceeding toward an insurance office.

Mr. Spooner, asked the courteous manager, "what is the exact nature of your claim?"

SCALP TROUBLE FOR YEARS
268 Harrison St., Ellyria, Ohio.—"My case was a scalp trouble. I first noticed small bunches on my scalp which commenced to itch and I began to scratch them and in time they got larger, forming a scale or scab with a little pus, and chunks of hair would come out when I would scratch them off. It caused me to lose most of my hair. It became thin and dry and lifeless. I was troubled for over ten years with it until it got so bad I was ashamed to go to a barber to get my hair cut."

"I tried everything I could get hold of, but to no avail. I then began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment when the scale commenced to disappear. The way I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment was to wash my scalp twice a day with warm water and Cuticura Soap, and rub on the Cuticura Ointment,
and in a couple of weeks
I was cured in two months."

WHAT'S WHAT ON TOWN ELECTIONS

The law, passed by the latest legislature in regard to the nomination of town and village officers, and the kind of ballots to be used, etc., is given below. The law should be carefully studied by all town and village officers.

Chapter 386, Laws of 1913

An act to amend subsection 6 of section 29 and to create section 30—of the statutes, relating to nomination of candidates for town or village officers.

Section 1. Subsection 6 of section 29 of the statutes is amended to read: (Section 29) 6. The electors of any town or village may assemble in caucus to make nominations of candidates for town and village officers, at which caucuses only qualified electors of such town or village shall participate and on the demand of any elector, the vote shall be by ballot. Such caucuses shall be held at least seven days prior to the day for holding the election. At each such caucus committee of three qualified electors shall be elected who shall give at least five days' notice, fixing the time and place of the next caucus to be held in such town or village.

Section 2. There is added to the statute a new section to read: Section 30-1. At any election at which town or village officers are to be elected, candidates for any office shall be nominated either by caucus as provided in subsection 6 of section 29 or by electors of such town or village equal in number to ten per cent of all the votes cast in such town or village for all candidates for governor at the last preceding general election. Such nomination papers shall conform to the provisions of subsections 2 and 3 of section 30 of the statutes. Such nomination papers shall be filed in the office of the town or village clerk at least five days prior to the holding of such election.

The town or village clerk shall cause to be printed a sufficient number of sample and official ballots. Such sample ballots shall be printed upon tinted paper and the official ballots upon white paper, and both shall be of sufficient length and width to afford space for the names of all candidates. The names of the candidates shall be arranged in the manner provided in section 35 of the statutes and the names of the candidates shall be arranged in alphabetical order under their respective office designations. Sufficient space shall be left under each office to write a name in lieu of any name printed therein. Such official ballots shall be endorsed as provided by subsection 3 of section 38 of the statutes except that the endorsement of one clerk shall be sufficient when only one clerk is required, by law, to be present.

3. The names of the persons nominated in the manner provided in this section and none other shall be placed upon the official ballots, provided, that in case no nominations are made, the spaces in which names or written dates may be printed or written shall be left blank. Ballots not provided by the respective town or village clerk shall not be counted in any election, but any voter may write upon his ballot the name of any person for whom he desires to vote for any office, in such place as to indicate the office.

4. Ballots used at such election shall be furnished solely at the expense of the respective town or village.

Section 3. This act shall take effect upon passage and publication.

Approved July 30, 1913.

Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. James Peterson of Grand Rapids are spending their winter vacation at the latter's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ingraham gave a birthday party last Tuesday evening in honor of their little daughter Evelyn who was 5 years old. The table was beautifully decorated with pink and white crepe paper draped from the ceiling to the center of the table. A pretty flower basket hanging in the center, in the center was a large bouquet of pink and white carnations and at each end of the table was a basket of candy and fruit, and at the side was the birthday cake with five little candles on it, which were lighted with two additional candles.

A splendid supper was served by Evelyn's grandmother, Mrs. Will Engstrom. The little host received many beautiful presents among them being a ring from her mother, which was given to her when five years old. The evening was spent in playing the phonograph, music and games were played finishing off with dancing. Little Evelyn already had dents bid good-bye. The five neighbors and friends of the Petersons and Ingrahams were present. All report a good time.

The Misses Frances Powers, Ida Burhite, also Fred Burhite attended a dance in the Bohemian settlement Saturday night.

Mrs. Lundquist and daughter Ruth and Anna spent Sunday at the Larson home in Grand Rapids.

Mr. Engstrom drove to Grand Rapids Wednesday and caught a severe cold, and now has a sore throat and is laid up.

Mrs. Herman Lueck, who has been sick since New Year's day is just able to be up a little but is not very strong. The miller H. E. Davis, who is well known among his many friends, was obliged to consult a doctor on account of ill health and went to Rochester, Minn., last Monday. He was accompanied by his son John, who has come back and reported that his father has to be operated on. So Mrs. Davis has gone to her husband's bedside. No further report yet as to Mr. Davis' condition.

Lewis Frank is searching the country for his pretty and valuable Collie dog.

Darlington Democrat:—Interlocking directorates may mean monopoly, if the controlling group direct all or nearly all manufacturing or carrying enterprises of a similar kind. This is often the case, though the public may not know it. One group of men control manufacturing or mining certain commodities and they may also control the highways that lead to the market. This is one of the worst forms of community interest among men of big financial enterprise but small public spirit.

Booming Useless Land.

To the Editor of The Homestead:

I notice in different northern papers advertisements of Florida land companies who are trying to get people to leave the "frozen north" and go to the land of sunshine to make homes where they can raise three crops a year on the same land, etc.

Will say that I did not find one word in ten years of the state of Florida as it is now and I was in Palm Beach county all winter from December 26, 1912, to March 10, 1913. I never saw my five-acre tract, it is so swampy and sandy. The company's agents almost laughed in my face when I asked them to take me to see it. Money is all they are after.

Lake worth is the new town this company is booming. There are no birds, no flowers, no grass, only that which has been planted and cultivated at a big expense. It is a good place for the rich to go to spend the winter and to plant fruit and truck as a pastime, but a poor man cannot make a decent living. Everywhere the soil is nothing but sand and white as snow, except in a few places and it takes a fat purse to buy these.

I am writing this in order that you may protect your readers against being defrauded of their hard-earned savings. I have no axe to grind, but I will say, where you can see a grove land and hear the birds sing in the spring.

H. D. Packard.

CUSING THE COURT.

A gentleman living in Milwaukee happens to hold the belief that a statute designed to prevent the bringing of diseased or imbecile children into the world is against public policy. This gentleman thinks it is perfectly legitimate to charge a man $2 for a marriage license, the fee to be used to pay the salaries of clerks in the marriage license office.

But he thinks it violates the map's constitutional rights to make him pay $3 for a physician's certificate of good health.

Now, that a gentleman should have these half-witted views is not surprising. A good many gentlemen are half-witted when it comes to a consideration of public policies.

But it happens that this particular Milwaukee gentleman is a doctor, and the state circuit court of Wisconsin, in a circumstance he has set aside a very mild and reasonable statute for the restriction of marriages among those who are physically and mentally unfit to marry. The statute may have been drafted by other citizens who in a minute more of constitutional law than the gentleman on the bench will ever know, but the bench makes him the supreme arbiter of laws, customs and public policies, unless and until his opinion shall be overruled by the opinion of other gentlemen on a higher bench.

It is this subversion of popular government to the opinion or caprice of any one or more than four thousand judges throughout the United States which creates the strong demand for the removal of Roosevelt.

That remedy is that whenever a judge or court says a statute of public policy is unconstitutional, the question that thus arises between the legislative servants and the judicial servants shall be referred for final decision to the masters of both—the people.—Kansas City Star.

SCIENCE OF CHIROPRACTIC

"What is Chiropractic?" is a question that has been often asked by many people of this city since Dr. Hoff opened an office in this city.

With a view to giving an intelligent answer to numerous of these queries, a Grand Rapids Tribune representative was told the following concerning Chiropractic.

"Chiropractic is a scientific method of removing the cause of disease, acute or chronic, without the aid of drugs, surgery or appliances," said the doctor, or according to the newly revised Webster's Dictionary—"Chiropractic"—A philosophy, a science and art of things natural, and a system of adjusting the articulations of the spine, by hand for the elimination of the cause of Disease.

"Pain is but the cry of an injured nerve. The Science of Chiropractic is based upon a correct knowledge of the brain, spine, spinal cord and nerves emanating therefrom. Pressure on a nerve at the opening where it leaves the spine, (which displacements or subluxations occur to some extent more or less in most all persons) will cause disease in that organ or tissue at which the nerve ends. The Chiropractor, after locating the place of pressure on the nerve by vertebral palpation and tracing of the tender nerves, adjusts by hand the displaced vertebrae, which relieves the pressure and enables the diseased organ or affected parts of the body to be again supplied with that birth right, Health, with its full quota of force and vitality force—the result being a steady gain in strength until the organs and parts affected can perform their natural functions."

"There can be no effect without a cause. Chiropractic removes the cause of disease."

"How long has the science of Chiropractic been established?" Dr. Hoff was asked.

"The science of Chiropractic first came to notice eighteen years ago by Dr. D. D. Palmer. For ten years it has been a slow growth, but within the last eight years it has made remarkable advances in winning new adherents."

"The Science of Chiropractic, that method of removing the cause of disease and thus eliminating the effect, by removing pressure on nerves, by adjustments of the spinal column, has been known for a few years, and yet established in every state of the Union, in Canada, Cuba, Japan, Spain, Norway and Sweden and many other foreign countries. The reason is obvious: Chiropractic is based on facts and not on theory, and Chiropractic gives specific results, regardless of the nature of the affliction."

"For a long time Chiropractic, as a scientific method, was looked upon as every day skepticism and doubt. Today, thousands of satisfied and happy patients who investigated found out that it is the only real science of healing, giving direct and positive results. Statistics taken from the records of the clinics of the Chiropractic Institutes thru-out the United States and Canada show that the results were obtained in about 95 per cent of cases. And what is more, practically all of these cases were chronic cases of people who found they could not get well from other methods and came to the Chiropractors as a last resort and obtained that which they had been seeking, Health, and all the good things that go with it."
